Jail O. S. R. Fugitive After Gun Battle

OFFICER FIRES 16 SHOTS AT FLEEING PAIR

Wounded Man Found Hiding In Clump of Bushes Following Chase Near Cleveland.

COMPANION ESCAPES

Inmates Fled From Reformatory Week Ago In Auto Stolen From Guard.

One of two Mansfield reformatory inmates who escaped last Thursday in a guard's car was wounded and captured today in a gun battle with police at Lakewood and Rocky River. Officers chased the two fugitives through the Cleveland suburban communities at 90 miles an hour and fired 16 shots at the pair.

Shot twice through the legs and captured by police was Ralph Inscho, 22, of Columbus, who was serving a reformatory term for burglary and auto theft.

Inscho's companion, Jack Mullen, 23, of Lakewood, eluded police in the chase and was the object today of a widened search in the Cleveland Metropolitan area.

Officers found Inscho lying in a clump of trees after he left a stolen car and tried to flee on foot. Mullen, however, escaped in the brush.

The pair, both trusties, fled from the reformatory farm last week in a car owned by Arthur Garver, a guard. The car had been parked near the reformatory blacksmith shop.

The fugitives were first sighted and chased by police near Cleveland last Saturday but officers lost their trail until this morning when Lakewood police saw the pair in a car and gave chase.

Patrolman Frank Seelie fired 16 shots at the speeding car until it crashed on a curve and Inscho and Mullen climbed out and started to run.

Police said the pair stole a second car and a young man's clothing in Fairview village and held up another young man and took his car and clothes later in Rocky River.

Mullen was admitted to the reformatory June 11, 1941, for unarmed robbery and driving a car without the owner's consent.

Would Check WLB Threat to Press Through Paper Ban

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Maas (R., Minn.) disclosed today he intends to try to back up with restrictive legislation his assertions that the war production board threatened "the freedom of the press" by its handling of newsprint quotas.

Maas told the house yesterday that WPB, which has ordered a new reduction in newsprint for the present quarter ranging up to five per cent for the larger newspapers, was:

1—Using control of production "for censorship."

2—Favoring some publishers over others.

3—Operating with no rules or standards, and "in star chamber

Ernie Writes About WACs In Africa

From North Africa, Ernie Pyle is sending a series of dispatches about the activities of the WACs in that theater of war.

"The WACs," he says, "have conducted themselves beautifully over here. Naturally one has a sip too much of wine now and then, or stays out past hours in the moonlight, but on the whole their conduct would more than meet the approval of any fair-minded person.

"Actually the WACs are neither prissies nor toughies, but just nice natural girls the same as they would be back home."

His first article on the WACs is on the editorial page today.

Plan to Put New Tax on 'War Wages'

Experts Draft Levy On Increased Earnings To Meet Debt.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Congressional and treasury experts collaborated today in drafting a new tax formula whereby persons whose incomes have increased because of the war will pay a larger share of the war's costs.

Such a plan, if written into law, would apply to individual income the principle of excess profits taxes as now applied against corporate income.

The house ways and means committee yesterday ordered the experts to study and report on the feasibility of such a tax, and at the same time announced it would begin consideration Sept. 8 "on a non-partisan basis" of a new general tax measure with new and higher levies.

Treasury experts and the committee's tax staff were asked to suggest "alternative means of raising additional revenue," including information on a sales tax, the so-called spending tax, compulsory savings and increased individual and corporate income taxes.

The committee, in its last tax meeting before congress takes a summer recess, also agreed finally that there would be no retroactive levies in the new general tax measure, saying "the main feature of the new tax bill will not become effective before Jan. 1, 1944."

Committee Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) said "We realize the necessity of securing every dollar of taxes the economy of the country can carry," and added:

"People, with some exceptions, of course, are receiving the largest salaries and the largest incomes in history, and at the same time the treasury is in greater need of revenue than at any time since our republic was founded."

However, he said, "We are not going to break anybody's back."

GREETS CHINA

Roosevelt Sends Message on Sixth War Anniversary.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt sent a special short wave radio greeting to the people of China today on the sixth anniversary of their resistance to Japanese aggression.

The message, read for the president in a transmission from San Francisco to Chungking, was followed by excerpts from former addresses by Mr. Roosevelt in his own voice.

"Our friends have long known what our enemies are learning today," the message declared, "that the promises of the United States are always kept and our pledges are always redeemed.

"I send you, the people of China, the heartfelt greetings of your partners, the people of the United States."

THEY WILL WALK

Motorists Who Misaddressed Applications Must Wait.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Motorists who misaddressed mailed applications for a new "A" gasoline ration book may find themselves without the use of their automobiles for a few days, the regional Office of Price Administration (OPA) said today.

Some of the several thousand persons who mailed renewel applications to OPA district and national headquarters instead of sending them to local ration boards may not receive their new books until the present one expires July 21, the OPA declared.

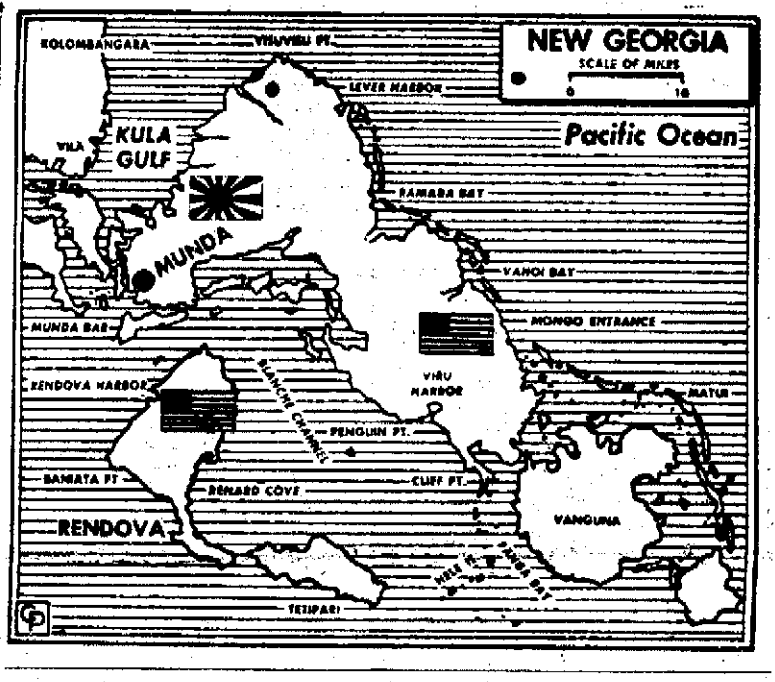
S. naval craft were revealed today to have sunk six enemy warships and damaged four others in a sea engagement that routed the enemy flotilla.



$381,983 CITY BUDGET OK'D

Planned Street Repair, Sewer Programs Responsible For Increase Over '43.

Budget requests for $381,983 operating the Mansfield city departments next year were approved without comment last night by city council following a public hearing at which no one appeared to offer any objections.

The amount sought for the city government in 1944 is $4,130 less than was asked for this year's general fund but $71,045 more than was set up for operations in 1943.

The big increase in the 1944 requests over the amount set up for expenditures this year city officials explained is due largely to the fact that council believed at the beginning of 1943 that war priorities would prohibit any extensive building operations and improvements and did not appropriate funds for them.

Since then, however, it was found that materials for street

STRAND 28,000 AT SHOWPLACE

Elevator Operators Leave 200 Atop RCA Tower.

NEW YORK—(AP)—An estimated 28,000 office workers and visitors were stranded yesterday in the towering structures of Rockefeller Center by a 55-minute strike of 225 elevator operators.

Some waited out the strikers, fretting and pushing elevator buttons as they did so, while others including some of the 200 persons in the RCA building's observation tower made their way downstairs on foot.

Officials of Rockefeller Center, a showplace of the city, and of the AFL Building Maintenance Craftsmen's union said the walkout resulted from an internal dispute in the union.

Council to Check on Police Appeal for New Radio System

An appeal to city council last night by Police Chief Meade K. Bates for more modern and efficient radio equipment for the police department brought the appointment of a three-member council committee to go over the police request with Bates and members of his department.

Appearing before council, Bates said the two-way radios in police cruisers are wearing out and it's become almost impossible to obtain replacement parts.

The department, he said, needs new style frequency modulation transmitters like the army is using which would enable officers in cruisers to transmit from their cars over an area of 50 miles. The mobile transmitter system would have headquarters outside the police headquarters so that the city would not be isolated should the regular police transmitter be put out of operation.

The frequency modulation transmitters would break through heavy storm conditions in the summer which virtually throttle the present equipment.

While Bates mentioned no cost figures in his request to council, he explained later that the equipment he had in mind would cost approximately $4,500 and would put the Mansfield police radio system on a par with the best in the country.

The four mobile transmitters now in use in the police cruisers went into operation in 1937. Much of the police department's radio equipment is home-made which has made the problem greater when transmitters needed repairs, he said.

Council President Howard Miller named Paul Bush, Sixth ward member, and Roy Vaughn and George C. Kyle, councilmen-at-large on a committee to study the need for new radio equipment.

WRONG TARGET

Flier Mistook Boise City For Practice Range, Bombed It!

BOISE CITY, Okla. — (AP) — 'Twas just a Yankee airman off the beam, residents of this Oklahoma panhandle community learned with belated comfort—after five small bombs had come crashing down early yesterday in a noisy climax to a July 4 celebration.

The misdirected air raid was halted only when the master switch at the city light plant was pulled, blacking out the town.

Officers at the Dalhart, Tex., army air base who arrived to investigate said the plane was one of a group which left Dalhart to bomb a practice range. It apparently got off course and the pilot mistook Boise City for the practice range, they explained.

No one was injured and property damage was slight.

Airline Plans for Expansion, C. of C. Bids for Stop In City

An announcement in New York today of a proposed expansion of American Airlines routes brought an assertion from the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce that every effort will be made to have Mansfield included in the additional cities served by this airline.

John G. Routzon, chamber secretary-manager, said a letter has already been sent to United Airlines asking that Mansfield be made a stop in its Detroit to Washington line and American Airlines will also be offered the facilities of the proposed new airport in Mansfield.

The chamber is most interested in the American Airlines proposed direct flight between Detroit and Miami by way of Toledo, Charleston, W. Va., Charlotte, N. C., Savannah, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla.

Plans for the 50 per cent increase in the American Airlines service were announced today by A. N. Kemp, president. The company hopes to put the program, termed by airline officials "the biggest expansion in facilities in the history of American aviation" into effect before the war's end provided it is approved and materials are available.

Application for the expansion program, to include freight and passenger service, has been filed with the Civil Aeronautics board.

In addition to the contemplated Detroit to Miami route, the company proposes to consolidate its transcontinental route from Boston and New York to Los Angeles and plans a new route from Cleveland and Detroit to St. Louis.

SUBSIDIES' FATE AGAIN IN BALANCE

Rollback, CCC Program Sent To Committee 'Loaded' In Favor of Compromise.

HECTIC FIGHT STAGED

Senators Vote To Send Back To FDR Same Bill He Vetoed Last Week.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The fate of the administration's subsidy-rollback program and of the Commodity Credit corporation depends today on a senate-house conference committee which has been heavily "loaded" with members favoring a compromise.

The conference meets today in an attempt to soften another senate demand that the program for cutting the retail prices of food through subsidies be killed.

The administration is counting heavily on the persuasive powers of senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, who was appointed a conferee, in getting a bill which will be acceptable to the president.

To support him Vice President Henry A. Wallace appointed as other senate conferees including Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., who is in favor of compromising congressional opposition to White House insistence upon the program, and Sen. John A. Danaher, R., Conn., who offered the latest senate-approved anti-subsidy proposal.

Today's conference follow[illegible] hectic on-again-off-again day in the senate during which that body first approved a limited subsidy plan, then disapproved of it, voted to reconsider that vote, and finally voted to outlaw subsidies.

The final vote was 36 to 28 on an amendment to a CCC extension bill that would forbid any government agency or corporation to pay subsidies to roll back food prices. The house, which last week narrowly sustained a presidential veto of a similar ban, re-

DEMPSEY WINS

Granted Divorce on Grounds of Infidelity.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. —(AP)— Lieut. Commdr. William Harrison Dempsey, U. S. Coast Guard Reserve, the former world's heavyweight boxing champion was awarded an interlocutory decree of divorce today from Hannah Williams Dempsey, former musical comedy actress.

Official Referee J. Addison Young of the supreme court, who heard the case last month, ruled that Dempsey's charge of his wie's infidelity in Los Angeles on Nov. 22, 1942, "was proven beyond doubt."

Referee Young, in his decision, ruled that judgment would be entered upon presentation of findings by the attorneys, "at which time the court will consider the question of the custody of the children and other relevant matters."

Legislator Would Establish Diplomats' 'West Point.'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Establishment of a "West Point of diplomacy"—an academy to train men and women for diplomatic posts—was advocated today by Rep. Curtis (R., Neb.).

He said he had prepared legislation to create an "academy of foreign service" patterned after the military academy at West Point, N. Y., and the naval academy at Annapolis, Md.

Six Sunk, Four Damaged in Battle of Kula

One American Cruiser Lost In Clash Expected to Doom Foe's Biggest Central Solomons Base at Munda, M'Arthur Reports.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The navy, revealing loss of the 9,700-ton light cruiser Helena during the smashing defeat of Japanese warships in Kula gulf, announced today that the far-ranging U. S. fleet also had struck a blow in the North Pacific by bombarding the enemy's base at Kiska. The bombardment of Kiska by a naval task force occurred on Tuesday evening. Enemy shore batteries failed to return the fire.

(By United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia—U. S. warships probably have sunk or damaged 10 Japanese cruisers and destroyers in Kula gulf, a communique announced today, to win the biggest naval battle in more than seven months and perhaps doom Munda, the main enemy base in the central Solomons. Six ships were reported probably sunk and four damaged.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of the coordinated South and Southwest Pacific offensives, said in his communique that the toll of enemy ships was based only on "preliminary dispatches"—a hint that the final count of Japanese losses may be even greater.

The victory, achieved at a cost of one American cruiser sunk, threatened, if not cut, the supply line from the secondary base of Vila across the 10-mile-wide Kula gulf to New Georgia, on which Munda is situated.

With the danger of interception by Japanese naval forces lessened, American combat units encamped on Rendova island, south of New Georgia, may sweep across the five-mile-wide Blanche channel opposite Munda in assault boats for a direct attack on the base.

MacArthur reported that army and marine units on Rendova have been reinforced and are consolidating their positions. American batteries on Rendova already are shelling Munda in conjunction with Allied air raids on the enemy base.

American warships steamed into narrow Kula gulf, off the northwestern shore of New Georgia, and intercepted an enemy force of cruisers and destroyers Monday night, MacArthur's communique said.

"Details are not yet available and a final assessment cannot be made, but it is indicated that six enemy ships probably were sunk and four damaged," the communique said. "We lost one cruiser."

This raised the Japanese losses since the start of the war to at least 337 ships sunk, 58 probably sunk and 259 damaged. The American cruiser sunk was the 103rd American warship lost, including the destroyer Strong sunk in Kula gulf 24 hours before the main battle Monday night.

The battle was the largest clash between two surface forces since the battle of Lunga Point in the southern Solomons last Nov. 30-Dec. 1, when six Japanese destroyers, two troop transports and a

AIR SIEGE: Gerbini Pounded For 36 Hours by Big Bombers

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—Flying Fortresses from North Africa and Liberators from the Middle East command poured hundreds of tons of high explosive and fragmentation bombs on Gerbini airdrome in southern Sicily yesterday as the air siege of that vital enemy base roared through its 36th hour.

The all-out effort to knock Gerbini and its four satellite fields from the map appeared nearing completion, photographs revealing terrific damage to administration buildings, hangars, parked aircraft and landing strips from the relentless poundings of the last two days and a night.

It was at Gerbini that Flying Fortress gunners of the northwest African command destroyed 41 enemy fighters on Monday, and at least one more Axis plane was shot down during yesterday's double daylight blow.

A Middle East communique said approximately 50 Liberators participated in yesterday's smash, dropping more than 285,000 pounds of high explosive and fragmentation bombs on the Gerbini fields. One enemy fighter was reported destroyed and two damaged while every Liberator returned safely.

Flying Fortresses from this base struck shortly after dawn and reported hits on an ammunition dump, administration buildings, hangars and five landing strips. Five planes of the northwest African force were reported missing from the day's operations, against two enemy aircraft destroyed.

During Monday night RAF Wellingtons hammered at Gerbini, starting five fires, while Biscari

TOLL: Reds Claim Nazis Lose 1,271 Tanks In 2-Day Battle

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)

The Berlin radio quoted a German military spokesman as announcing today that the Germans had broken through the main Soviet fighting line at several points in the Kursk area, center of the Russian bulge below Moscow.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—The German army has paid a terrific toll in tanks and manpower as the price for the "insignificant gains" achieved in two days of bitter fighting in the 1943 summer offensive on the Orel-Kursk-Belgorod front, the Russians said today.

While acknowledging the loss of two unidentified towns near Belgorod at the southernmost end of the revitalized 165-mile front, the Red army announced last night that in two days its artillery had smashed 1,271 enemy tanks and shot down 314 planes while the German loss in dead exceeded 10,000.

Advices from the front indicated the German high command was sending wave after wave of armored units and infantry against the strongly defended Soviet positions, making no appreciable headway.

(The Soviet monitor in London reported that the customary Russian midday communique was not broadcast today.)

The attacks all along the front were strongly supported by the German air force and the Russians said they believed large forces of German planes had been shifted from western European bases for the drive.

The Russian midnight communique reported the destruction of 11 German planes and said 22 [illegible]

PRECISION PACKING METHODS GIVES PILOTS FAITH IN 'CHUTES

(By International News Service)

COFFEYVILLE ARMY AIR FIELD, Coffeyville, Kan. — They call them the life preservers of the air and many an army pilot has found his parachute to be just that when something went wrong several thousand feet above the good solid earth.

It takes more than ordinary nerve to dive headlong into space and put your faith in a 24-foot circle of silk—but faith in his 'chute is one thing that an army pilot has in plenty.

The men who wear the chutes know that everything possible has been done to insure the quick opening and safe landing of their silken umbrella in case they do have to take the long step off into space.

At Coffeyville Field as at every other AAF station, a complete and efficient parachute department is charged with the care of the parachutes used by its pilots.

Under direction of Paul L. Wood, civil service employe of the field's sub depot, three expert packers regularly inspect and repack the chutes in use here.

Wood himself was trained in precision parachute packing and all other phases of parachute maintenance and repair at the major AAF depot at Patterson Field, O., parachute headquarters for the entire Air Force. The three packers in his department are Miss Ruth Dunwoody, Mrs. Lavetra Wears, and James Keith.

The use of women packers has become increasingly popular at army fields, and soldier packers have almost disappeared from parachute departments at new stations of the gulf coast training center.

Each chute is inspected—but not unpacked — once every 10 days. This is an external inspection to see that no damage has been caused to the harness, cover, or rip cord device of the chute. It is considered most important in this inspection to see that the rip cord pin, which is the release mechanism of the chute, is in perfect order.

Parachute buildings are always recognizable by the square tower — something like an oversize church steeple—in which chutes are hung to air out and dry. Each chute gets a visit to this tower, known as the "well," every 60 days. It is unpacked and hung in the well for 24 hours while circulating air, kept at a constant temperature of 75 degrees, removes any trace of dampness from its shiny fabric.

Removed from the well, the chute is laid out on a long table and every section of it inspected for possible defects — skipped stitches, torn places, grease spots, etc.

Minor repairs and replacements to damaged chutes can be made by the packers but anything as serious as a two-inch tear requires the sending of the chute to Patterson Field for patching or condemnation.

I found the way to Amazing NEW Pep... Vitality... better Looks!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

THESE two important steps may help you overcome the discomforts or embarrassment of sour stomach, jerky nerves, loss of appetite, underweight, digestive complaints, weakness!

A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

So with ample stomach digestive juices PLUS rich, red-blood you should enjoy that sense of well being which denotes physical fitness . . . mental alertness!

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need as it is especially designed to promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach and to build-up blood strength when deficient.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa—(By Wireless)—American soldiers in North Africa know fairly well what is going on at home and some of the news that comes over is discouraging.

I talked with a young fighter pilot who has been out on 50 missions. He has five Nazi planes to his credit and has been ordered home, presumably to train new pilots. He is Lieut. Daniel Kennedy of Boston who worked on the Boston Traveller before he joined the army. All he wanted to talk about was his P-38 plane. "It's got it over the 109 Focke Wulf," he said, and he told how he picked off three of them in two minutes. He modestly described the feat as a combination of luck plus the ability of the P-38 to outmaneuver the Focke Wulf.

Clapper

Our soldiers are getting good equipment and plenty of it. That is a job in which the home front can take deepest pride. But that is largely an industrial achievement.

The management side of the home economy we are reaching here is of petty politics, reckless [illegible] and shortsighted controversy that makes fighting, dusty soldiers here wonder what kind of country he is going back to.

They read the Stars and Stripes. The circulation figure is secret for obvious military reasons but practically every man in Africa reads it.

Here's the news from home that greeted tens of thousands of American soldiers on the African front on a single day:

Secretary Ickes appealing to miners to go back to work on the "eve of the greatest military campaign in history."

The threatened breakdown of price control means that the allowance the soldiers are sending their dependent families won't go so far. Soldiers read that butter in San Francisco bounced to $1.25 a pound when the price ceiling was lifted. You can imagine the worry over how their families are living. The picture over here is that congress' vote refusing to allow subsidies actually invited a wild break in prices, and an orgy of profiteering. If that is not what congress favors it would be a good idea to get the correct impression across over here.

The Wallace-Jones dispute also was reported in the Stars and Stripes along with Roosevelt's lecture to the press. Such public quarreling at the peak of the home front structure is known to practically every soldier here. It seems to be going on just the same as when most of them left civilian life or left the states for the war theater.

We baby ourselves with the idea that democracy even in war time must have its bickering as usual. On the contrary, from over here it looks like a careless abuse of the privileges of democracy.

In England they have got over most of that kind of thing because it is not compatible with the best war effort. They have free debate but have held it within limits by a general sense of responsibility on the part of politicians who feel they can wait until later for their real go at their opponents.

American and British forces in the European theater and here in the African theater are working together with a smooth coordination which I never expected to find in either place. The French act like we do at home and most soldiers here are disgusted with their political bickering. Our news from home sounds too much like demoralized French affairs and both give democracy a bad name.

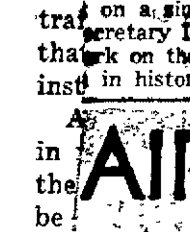
NEW YORK—Since last winter when I went to Kansas City and completed a long preliminary investigation of the sweet insurance racket conducted by Harold M. Franklin, the son of J. A. Franklin, president of the Boilermakers' Union of the AFL, I have gone further into the matter and made new interesting discoveries.

Incidentally, lest there be any misunderstanding, I would say that Harold M. Franklin, the old man's kid and William E. Walter, the international secretary-treasurer are both liars. Incidentally, an attempt was made to cover up this racket by denying that young Franklin, was then, in March of this year, or ever had been the beneficiary agent in any insurance business between the union and any company. I have a number of court records proving that he was and still is the agent and a photostat of the current insurance agreement between the union and the Occidental Life Insurance company of California signed by the elder Franklin and by Walter. I have also a photostat of the commission agreement between the company and Harold M. Franklin whereby the son of the president is promised four per cent of the total premiums for the first year, which ended July 1, 1942, and two per cent for the remaining nine years of the policy. Members of the union who were not only forced to join but also compelled to buy this insurance at the high rate of $15 a year have told me that there are now about 300,000 members which would mean that young Franklin and his partner, Jerome S. Koehler, a lawyer, divide $180,000 a yearly equally between them. In addition they receive commissions on other insurance promoted by the union through its national headquarters in Kansas City, Kan., and their total income would appear to be about $100,000 a year each. The number of the policy is 756100.



Pegler

The insurance laws of the various states are not uniform but an insurance expert has told me that most of them forbid discrimination. Nevertheless, this agreement between the union and the company for the great benefit of the union's president's son, does discriminate. The first year member gets only $333.33 on coverage for his $15, the second year man gets $666.00 and those who have been members for three years or more get $1,000. Young Franklin's cut is the same in all cases, however.

Another interesting provision of the contract is one which sets aside large amounts of money for payment to the union, itself. There is no mention of any intention to divide this money between the members or to use it to reduce the premiums. It goes straight into the treasury presided over by Brother Walter in Kansas City, Kan., in addition to a rake-off already deducted from the victim's $1.25 a month ostensibly for the expense of keeping the union's insurance records in its home office. Members, of course, will come and go. In the last year incalculable numbers of victims have been herded into the fold in the great shipyards of the country and Henry Kaiser has been a party to this operation through his closed shop agreements, whereby hordes of persons unknown were delivered over to the compulsory insurance racket far in advance of their employment. The transient members included in the great turnover of course have a right to any benefit kickback accruing from their payments for it is general practice in the insurance business to use the reserves for the benefit of the policyholders. But the elder Franklin and Walter saw to it that this money would not be ear-marked for the members. Not even the unioneers in command of the locals are allowed to make a pass at it. It goes to the international, in addition to eight and one-third cents a month from each member in the guise of administration expenses in the union's insurance department, with its vast regular income, including money wrung from shipyard workers who had to join and pay in order to get jobs building ships but would have preferred not to; the union of course, easily could have absorbed this administration cost. But, in any case, this shakedown of more than six per cent added to the cost of the coverage, obviously is far out of proportion to the actual cost of keeping the insurance records. It comes to $25,000 a month or $300,000 a year, not for bookkeeping.

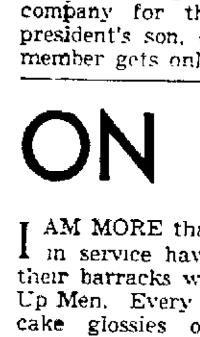
And brooding over the entire situation is the fact that the union officials got together with the Occidental Life Insurance company of California and negotiated a contract which throws a sweet profit to the company and to the union and a fabulous rake-off to the son of the union's president in which the policyholder had absolutely no voice.

ON BROADWAY--

By
Dorothy Kilgallen

I AM MORE than a little surprised that the girls in service have not yet gone in for decorating their barracks with pictures of their favorite Pin-Up Men. Every soldier camp swarms with cheesecake glossies of Betty Grable, Lana Turner, Veronica Lake and other screen lovelies, but I haven't heard of the WACs and WAVES papering their walls with shots of attractive screen fellows.

This paradox was brought home to me rather forcibly yesterday when I ran into Henny Youngman, who was carrying an 8x10 picture of himself, which he wistfully indicated he would like to give to some deserving WAC.



Kilgallen

Admittedly it would be a pretty odd sort of soldier girl who would yearn to have Henny's visage grinning down at her——but photographs of Cary Grant, Gary Cooper, Robert Taylor and Ray Milland make nice scenery, and I wonder the girls haven't made use of them.

Mayor LaGuardia must be very busy lately. Or else he's boycotting our best fires . . . The prospect of post-war aviation, as the experts say it will be, almost makes my toes curl, with London an overnight jaunt and Hollywood just a few hours away from Broadway. It's certain that New York will become a busier playground than ever when air travel reaches its peak. And if you've seen all the shows on Broadway, I guess the thing to do will be to hop over to Piccadilly and catch one of the British hits "tomorrow night." . . . I never guessed until I saw them for the first time in the flesh that Alan Ladd is so short and Conrad Nagel so tall.

It might be amusing to team Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe again for a World War II version of their Sergeant Quirt-Captain Flagg nonsense, just to see what would happen. . . . If anybody around doubts that the war has brought a lot of changes to Broadway, let him contemplate the fact that a canvas-top circus flourished of late in the shadow of Radio City and that a yodeling cowboy named Elton Britt was recently featured on Broadway. It seems only a matter of time before county fairs will be running in Bryant park, and the automobile-empty highways leading into town will be used to herd steers into market. Possibly all this is a good thing, because the increased ruralification of old Gotham may tend to break down the traditional barriers between town and country, and cause outlanders to regard us as other than city slickers.

I saw Nelson Eddy the other night. For some reason, if the blond baritone's name is mentioned to me, I get an immediate picture of him, in the uniform of the Northwest Mounted Police, clopclopping away and singing like crazy. It was a different Nelson I saw as I peered around a giant umbrella-stand of flowers to see what kind of a tie he was wearing. No horse, no uniform, no song—just a violent appetite and a noticeable appreciation of the night club's private weather. . . . If you'd like the boys overseas to get pleasure out of your old piano, records phonograph, radio or musical instrument, I happen to know that the New York Port of Embarkation Special Service Office will accept any or all of these items that it can get.

It is easy to lose faith in America's appreciation of values in entertainment when you pause to reflect that a pop singer whose tour de force is "Murder He Says" gets mobbed, idolized and pestered to death by adorers, while a great artist of the theater is as alone in her exit from the stage door as she is in the sanctity of her dressing room. I suppose if Helen Hayes did a swing version of "Harriet" her fan mail would get out of control, and so would her fans. Of course you know what they'd call it, too: "Swing Low, Sweet Harriet!"

GRASS GOING, END OF BEEF FAMINE SEEN

Ranchers Will Be Forced To Market Cattle, OPA, WFA Sources Say.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The beef famine will be broken within the next two to three weeks, it was believed in Washington today.

Thus, in slightly more than a fortnight, the citizens will once more be able to find and buy as much beef as their ration books will allow.

However, it was learned at the same time that the beef famine in the coast states will get worse before it gets better. Especially in the gulf and Atlantic coast areas will the beef shortage grow more serious in the next week, experts said.

The unchangeable laws of economics will force beef to the markets again in a short time, it was stated.

Because the cheapest and most plentiful cattle feed—the grass of the pasture land—will be exhausted soon, the nation's ranchers will have to send their cattle to the stockyards in large numbers, it was believed by both OPA and War Food administration sources.

The ranchers will be faced with the choice of either selling their cattle or holding the animals and feeding them expensive hay and scarce grains. In many cases, the second alternative would mean a severe monetary loss.

In such circumstances, it is felt that the ranchers, despite their grievances, will once more resume normal shipments of beef cattle.

The ranchers, dissatisfied—as are the packers—with current prices and wary of the administration's subsidy and roll-back plans, have held their cattle back from slaughtering centers in record numbers. As a result, one of the greatest beef shortages in U. S. history has occurred, with even the armed forces feeling the scarcity.

Complete figures for beef cattle brought to the nation's stockyards in June have not yet been tabulated, but for two major cities alone—East St. Louis and Omaha—a drop of 65,000 cattle from last year has been recorded.

RETAINS STATUS

Traitor Stephan To Keep U. S. Citizenship Under Order.

DETROIT — (U.P) — Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle has refused to revoke the United States citizenship of Max Stephan, convicted traitor whose death sentence was commuted by President Roosevelt.

Tuttle declined to sign a government petition ordering Stephan to show cause why his citizenship should not be revoked. At the bottom of the petition he scrawled:

"It is hereby denied as useless expense if the government really intended that the respondent (Stephan) be impisoned for life. And an added reason for denying it is to prevent a claim that he, being an alien, should be deported to save this government board and room expense, which, if successful, would only amount to imprisonment for the duration of this present war."

Schools May Get Equipment From Mifflin NYA Camp

Shop equipment in 15 National Youth administration training centers in Ohio, including the one at Charles Mill lake, would be turned over to school vocational departments under a bill proposed today in the U. S. senate.

While nothing has been announced officially concerning the fate of the NYA youth centers since congress cut off NYA funds, it has been indicated that all the training centers will be closed and the equipment distributed to state, county, and municipal boards of education.

The NYA properties in Ohio are valued at $1,500,000. Schools and dormitories are located at Mifflin, Columbus, Cincinnati, Chillicothe, Newark, Portsmouth, Wilberforce and Muskingum colleges, and Miami university.

Girls have been trained at the Charles Mill center in recent months, many of them later finding jobs in war plants in northern Ohio.

DIKE BREAKS NEAR TOLEDO

Residents Rushed From 300 Homes as Waters Spread Over Wide Area.

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO—Hundreds of families were homeless today after pounding waves crumbled an earthen dike along Lake Erie and released a flood that swept rich farm land, inundated two resort-residential areas and caused thousands of dollars damage.

Police and coast guardsmen worked throughout the night evacuating scores by boat after nearly 300 homes were surrounded by water which poured through breaks in the dike at Reno Beach 15 miles east of here yesterday evening.

Seventy-five homes were cut off at Reno Beach when two sections of the three-mile dike gave way. One break in the 10-foot high wall was 200 feet long, the other 50 feet.

The flood quickly spread out over a lake front area four miles long and a mile wide, surrounding more than 200 homes in the Howard Farms residential section two miles east of Reno Beach and covering a number of fertile vegetable farms.

Many of the evacuees were taken to a 500-bed Red Cross emergency center set up in a school near Reno Beach. Others were sheltered by friends.

The dike, which effectively held back waves for several years, had been weakened by the incessant pounding of wind-stirred water the past week, and lake front residents piled up tons of sand in bags in an effort to reinforce it. Residents of the area said a system of canals behind the dike would carry off the water after the waves subsided.

RITES SET FOR F. L. STOUGH, 45

Funeral services for Foster L. Stough, 45 who died Tuesday morning at his home, 219 East Second street, will be conducted Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Geiger funeral home, with Rev. A. J. Manton, pastor of First Methodist church, Bucyrus, officiating. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery, Bucyrus.

Mr. Stough was foreman of maintenance at Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company for several years. He was a member of Arcana Lodge, No. 272, Crestline.

Up and Down THE STREET

Mansfielders who have received their War Ration Book 3 are beginning to realize that "we ain't seen nothin' yet" as far as ration books and coupons are concerned. They are convinced the troubles have just begun. Red stamps in the book are the same size as those in the present ration book 2 but the darker stamps bearing the pictures of ships, tanks, planes, and guns, measure approximately one-quarter inch by one-half inch. If one is accidentally torn off or dropped finding it will be like "looking for a needle in a haystack."

Trying to determine whether a property at Fifth avenue and Ashland road is inside the city or outside the corporation limits has city council puzzled. The question came up at last night's council meeting when Mrs. Mary Johns, owner of the property, tested in a letter to council that that she has been paying taxes on the home for a number of years as a county property and therefore cannot be assessed legally for city street improvements. City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner and City Engineer W. C. Statler told council, however, that their investigation shows the property to be part of the city and taxable for a city street project. If a map shows the lot outside the city, the map is wrong, Wagner said.

Sales tax stamps saved for them by the people of Mansfield are providing the Lamplighters Council for the sightless with their annual week vacation at Greter's lake. From the tax stamp sales this year the council was able not only to provide for the annual vacation but also to buy $95 worth of war savings stamps and do welfare work among the blind. Officers of the organiatzion are Miss Dorothy McQuillen, president; Charles Ward, treasurer, and Mrs. Blanche McQuillen, secretary.

SHIP, AIRCRAFT OUTPUT RISES

Over-All Munitions Production Remains Same In May as In April.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Production of planes and naval vessels reached new highs in May, the War Production Board's monthly report showed today, but the over-all output of munitions remained unchanged from April.

WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson's report noted declines in ground ordnance, miscellaneous munitions and merchant vessels, which he described as a "very serious matter." The decline in merchant vessels was based on the value of work put in place in shipyards, however, and not on the basis of actual deliveries, which in May were the highest so far with nearly 1,800,000 deadweight tons.

Of the four major programs, merchant ships led in the first six months of the year, with 44 per cent of the 1943 goal achieved. Army ordnance and the output of naval vessels and equipment were estimated at 40 per cent of the 1943 goals, and aircraft 35 per cent.

"We have reached a point now where gains in production will be won only through the most thoughtful and determined effort on the part of all concerned," Nelson said.

He called for the setting aside of personal and group interests "in the interests of all of us as much as it is humanly possible for we are on the verge of one of the greatest trials of our national history."

The May production boxscore, as compared with April:

Total munitions, unchanged; aircraft and aircraft equipment, up 5 per cent; ground ordnance, down 3 per cent; navy and army vessels (value put in place), up 2 per cent; merchant vessels (value put in place), down 4 per cent; miscellaneous munitions, down 7 per cent.

ODT PEEVED AT OPA'S EASING OF BAN ON GAS

But Eastern Motorists Will Get Fuel For Round Trip To Vacation Spot.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A spokesman for the Office of Defense Transportation today indicated that his agency disapproves of the OPA move in easing the east coast pleasure driving ban to permit restricted vacation travel.

After it was learned that the OPA decision was made by Price Administrator Prentiss Brown without consulting the ODT on the possible effect on the already "tight" essential transportation situation, the ODT spokesman said:

"It seems fairly clear that gasoline used for this purpose can't be used for something else."

Despite any objections, however, east coast motorists will be allowed to use their "A" ration after July 15 for one round trip to a vacation spot if other means of transportation are inadequate.

Technical OPA experts themselves were taken somewhat by surprise at the partial easing in driving restrictions. They had emphasized that the gasoline allotment for civilian transportation in the east had cut deeply into essential driving, and had expressed fears of a transportation breakdown which would adversely affect war production.

Officials of the petroleum administration asserted that their approval of the move was predicated on the qualification that no additional gasoline would be requested for the vacation driving program. Newsmen were informed that Brown requested an additional 10,000 to 15,000 barrels a day for this purpose and was turned down.

OPA spokesmen declared only two days ago that the allotment of 328,000 barrels of gasoline per day for eastern civilian requirements, was insufficient to meet essential driving needs, and they had requested Petroleum Administrator Ickes to increase the allotment to 372,000 barrels.

Price Chief Brown expressed the view that the easing of the pleasure driving ban would not result in any 'substantial increase" in consumption.

"Should it develop that despite vigorous enforcement an excessive amount of gasoline is being used it will be necessary for OPA to abandon the plan," Brown declared.

COFFEE BONUS

Restaurants Get 20 Per Cent More Under Ruling.

WASHINGTON—(U.P)—The Office of Price Administration today authorized a 20 per cent coffee bonus for commercial eating places and other large institutional users.

The bonus, which will be available when institutional uses apply on or after Aug. 5 for their September-October allotment, is based on the total amount of coffee used in the July-August period, including any supplemental allotment received at that time.

Small boarding houses and other small institutional users will not receive a bonus.

Ration Official Says Volunteers Needed for Book 3 Mailing.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohioans will fail to receive their No. 3 war ration book by the July 21 deadline unless hundreds of additional volunteer helpers aid in the mailing program, Maj. D. P. Branson, in charge of recruiting civilians for the task, declared today.

"I am hopeful we can complete mailing by the first of August," he said, but added it would be impossible to meet the deadline set by the office of price administration unless at least 300 more volunteers a day reported for duty at the state mailing center here.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

held my breath as I waited Dicky's answer. Surely he uld never let those two husky dyguards—I was sure they were midable — accompany Ruth yes into our apartment!

But I need not have worried. voice, as he answered the lderness woman," held a tanizing, puzzled note.

'Us?'" he repeated. "You an you wish these two worthy ntlemen to come inside with ?"

Of course that's what I mean!" retorted. "You don't think I'm ning into your apartment alone, you?"

To tell you the truth," Dicky d engagingly. "I haven't given matter the slightest thought yet. But now that I do consider I am afraid, much as it desoes me to refuse a request from fair a visitor, I shall have to 'No, no, a thousand times no!' mother always told me, you , never to admit strange men, whom I hadn't been introduced my home, especially after lnight."

could imagine the impudent— l attractive—smile with which ky handed out this atrocious ly. That it had been effective s evident when I heard Ruth yes give a little choking sound, pure rage, I guessed.

Just say the word, Missus," of the men said, "and we'll this guy's ears into his eyes!"

Shut up!" she commanded shly. Then she spoke to Dicky in.

You're going to regret these ap cracks!" she said venomous "but just now I have no alterive. I'll come in alone."

That is very sweet of you," ky assured her. "And it will be te safe for you to trust me. On honor, you need not fear for r purse, nor for that which is btless dearer to you than life. m an honorable and a chivals gentleman."

"Will you shut that trap of yours long enough to open that door?" she demanded.

"Presently, presently," he said airily. "You see, while we can trust each other, I do not have the same naive feeling toward these weird - sounding gentlemen you have in your train. I really haven't the slightest yen for having my ears pinned into my eyes, so before you come in, I must ask your escorts to go back to the elevator, which I can see from here, ring for it and get into it. When it has started up or down—I do not care which—I will undo the night chain and admit you. But not until then."

His voice changed from mockery to steely decision on the last words, broken at last by a sullen order from Ruth Hayes.

"Go back to the elevator," she said, "ring for it, go down, and then do what I told you before."

"Okay," one of them said, and then there was silence, broken at last by the sound of the elevator door closing.

"Now," Dicky said, undoing the night chain, "won't you honor my humble abode by entering it?"

I guessed that he watched her with intent alertness as she went past him, for he did not put up the night chain until she was well inside the room. Then he snapped it, closed the door, and moved toward her, pulling out a comfortable chair as he neared her.

"Won't you be seated?" he asked. "And what may I offer you? A drink? A smoke?"

"Nothing," she said. "I haven't time, and I can't waste what I have talking to you. I, suppose you're the lad they call 'the Dickybird.' If you are, please get your wife in here, and that spineless limpet, her friend, Katharine."

I heard Dicky give the low, lazy laugh which he can make the most infuriating sound possible.

"Fie, fie!" he said, "Also, pish! tush! and my goodness gracious! What language, from such ruby lips! You'll disillusion me, if you don't look out."

For the space of a second Ruth Hayes was silent. Then she fairly spat a venomous threat at him.

"Look here, big boy," she said, "I don't know what your game is, but I'm not playing it. That Katharine washout didn't show up tonight as I told her to, and your dame had the nerve to send me a wire she was sick and couldn't keep the appointment. Now they're not going to do that to me, and get away with it. Where are they?"

Quiet Ceremony Will Be Read by Rev. G. E. Swoyer

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Eloise June Harbaugh to Charles Robert Hunt is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Harbaugh, 208 Helen avenue.

The couple will exchange vows on July 14 in a quiet ceremony read by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer at the First Lutheran church.

Miss Harbaugh is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school. She is employed in the circulation department of The Mansfield News-Journal.

Mr. Hunt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Hunt of Lakewood, is a graduate of Lakewood high school. He is an instructor at the Municipal airport.

Couple Tell of Quiet Service Read May 28

Announcement is being made here of the marriage of Miss Lois Fisher, Decatur, Ill., a former Mansfield resident, and George W. Fox, jr., aviation cadet, State Teachers' college, Nashville, Tenn., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fox, sr., 79 Sherman avenue.

Quiet service was solemnized on May 28 in Johnson City, Tenn., before the altar of the First Methodist church. Rev. M. L. Gamble officiated before a flower-banked altar.

For her wedding the bride wore a yellow suit with white accessories. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie M. Fisher, Decatur, Ill. The couple was unattended.

The bride attended Mansfield Senior high school but was graduated from Decatur high school. She is a member of the Epsilon Psi Epsilon sorority. Mr. Fox, a graduate of the Mansfield high school, also attended Ohio State university.

For the present Mrs. Fox will reside in Decatur.

Tabitha Class Meets for Picnic

Twenty-six members of the Tabitha class of the First Lutheran church met Tuesday evening at the North Lake park for a picnic supper. Hostesses were Mrs. Benton Doolittle, Mrs. Glenn Hedges, Mrs. Clarence Yohn, Mrs. Walter Aby and Mrs. Anna Kiany. Mrs. J. C. Robinson and son of San Francisco, Calif., who are visiting Mrs. Robinson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hedges, were guests for the occasion.

A letter from a former member, Mrs. Theodore Meyer, California, was read to the group. The remainder of the evening was spent socially. The next meeting will be held Aug. 3 with the place to be announced later.

Makes Plans For Picnic

Plans were made for a picnic to be held on August 15 at South park at a meeting of the Ladies auxiliary of the Typographical union held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Harold Bracey, Altamont avenue.

Nine members were present at the meeting. The club prize was won by Mrs. Zora Weimer. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by the hostess. The next regular meeting will be on August 3 at the home of Mrs. Ethel Brubach, 282 Sheridan avenue.

Children's Theater Board Members Entertain Mothers

Second annual tea for mothers of youngsters in the Children's Theater was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. D. Gibson, 282 West Fourth street. Members of the board were hostesses for the occasion with 40 in attendance.

Assisting Mrs. Gibson were Mrs. Joy Herbert, Mrs. William Bishop, Mrs. Louis Meisse, Mrs. O. I. Alverson, Mrs. Estes Thompson, Mrs. Michael De Sanze, Miss Hester Robinson and Mrs. Wesley Carr.

During the afternoon talks were given by Harold McCuen, director of the theater group, and his assistant, Miss Margaret Wadsworth. Other members of the theater faculty in attendance were Mrs. Ethyl Battin and Miss Ruth Duke.

Discussion was held and announcement made of the coming theater production, "Midsummer Night's Dream" which will be presented at South Park on Friday evening, July 16. All children in the group will participate in the show, which will consist of the narrative and ballet.

When tea was served Mrs. Herbert poured. The refreshment table was dainty with crystal and antique Dresden slipper filled with pastel sweetpeas.

Children Need Daily Guidance

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

A NUMBER of the large war-production areas are establishing child-caring centers for the small children of working mothers. But there are almost no such centers for children from 6 to 15.

Even if enough such protective centers for working mothers' children from six to fifteen were available, not many of these children would be in them. During the long summer months thousands of children will be roaming the streets without guidance or protection. It was bad enough for these children when they were in school part of the day. It is much worse during the long summer vacation.

The mother while at work, if she really cares, must be anxious for the physical and moral safety of her neglected children. Coming home weary, she must not only face another day's work about the house, but often also face the reported difficulties her child got into during her absence. These problems mount and multiply as time goes on. Under the most favorable conditions, it is hard to deal with the child who is reported to have done some wrong while the parent was away. It is much more difficult when this parent is absent day after day for weeks and months on end.

There can be no ideal solution, of course, except for the mother to stop work and remain home to look after her child or she could get a competent substitute or places him in a child-protecting center. Neither of these can be so good for the child as the best mother can be. Moreover, the average mother who works may not be able to make sure her child, especially between 10 and 14, would always be in the center when he is supposed to be there.

Nevertheless, in an effort to offer sympathetic help to the working mother for dealing as well with her child as possible, I have prepared a special bulletin on "Suggestions for Working Mothers," to be had for postage by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Q. I have been reading to my three-year-old daughter since she was sixteen months of age, but she won't say the rhymes and stories for me, especially when guests are present.

A. Don't ask her to say them. Just keep filling her up by reading and reading to her and by and by she will respond. Better, still, she may make up rhymes or yarns of her own. By all means, don't have your child show off before your guests. My selected list of books from which to read to the baby and young child may be had without cost to you, by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a three-cent stamp on it.

First Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

Mrs. Rollin Spayde, the former Lucille Moxley who recently announced her marriage, was honored last evening, the occasion being her first wedding anniversary. Hostess for the party was Mrs. Henry Inscore, 413½ Henry street. The eight guests in attendance presented the bride with a shower of personal gifts.

Bridge was the diversion with score prizes being won by Mrs. Spayde and Miss Marjorie Miles, who presented her gift to the honoree. The hostess also gave Mrs. Spayde a gift.

At a late hour refreshments were served at small tables attractive with dainty bouquets of sweetpeas. Appointments were in the pastel shades.

Mrs. Spayde will be entertained only July 15 at Staiger Tea room, Glessner avenue when Mrs. W. C. Linn and Mrs. R. J. Crosky are hostesses to a group of friends.

G. H. Blecker Speaks About Rent Control

George H. Blecker, a member of the rent control board, was guest speaker at a picnic meeting of the Dolly Madison club held Tuesday night at North Lake park for members of the club and guests.

In his talk Mr. Blecker explained the work of the board in relation to both the tenant and the owner.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Emma Bellore. It was announced that there would be no August meeting. Mrs. Carl Stough won the attendance award.

Seventy-five were seated at two long tables for the supper. The committee in charge of arrangements was Mrs. Howard Wenning, chairman; Mrs. Howard Sword, Mrs. Norman Wolfe, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Charles Huston, Mrs. Herman Homberger, Mrs. Lester Stevick, Miss Margaret Cumberworth and Mrs. Louis Bromfield

The next regular meeting will be on September 7 with Mrs. Charles Lex, as chairman.

Refrigerator Cake Doesn't Take Sugar

By BETSY NEWMAN

Don't forget to serve a refrigerator cake once in awhile to satisfy the family's sweet tooth. I'm giving you a recipe for one that will not take any sugar, and is easy to make.

Today's Menu.

Savory Veal Steaks
Boiled Potatoes or Fried Noodles
Green Beans Lettuce Salad
Jelly Refrigerator Cake Iced Tea

Savory Veal Steaks

1½ lbs. veal shoulder steaks
2 Tbsps. flour
1½ tsp. salt
2 Tbsps. lard
1½ tsps dry mustard
2 onions
½ cup water
1 cup top milk

Buy 3 arm bone veal shoulder steaks. Mix dry ingredients and pound into meat, and brown one side in hot lard. Sprinkle with remaining flour mixture. Turn and cover with sliced onions. When second side is brown, add water, cover and simmer 45 minutes. Remove meat to platter, add milk to drippings, heat thoroughly and serve as sauce with meat. Serves 5-to 6.

Jelly Refrigerator Cake.

1½ c. sweetened condensed milk
¼ cup lemon juice
⅔ cup currant jelly
24 vanilla wafers

Turn milk into mixing bowl, blend in lemon juice, add jelly, beating it in with a fork. Line loaf pan with waxed paper, put in layer of wafers, cover them with jelly mixture. Continue alternating wafers and jelly mixture until all have been used, finishing with layer of wafers. Chill 12 hours or more in refrigerator. To serve, remove from pan, turn onto platter, and cut in slices.

HONORS GUEST

WILLARD—Miss Mildred Beckett entertained a group of friends at her home last week in honor of Mrs. Sarah Louise Evans of Lorain, who is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Evans.

Greece Proclaimed In State of Revolution by Nazis

DECREE DEATH FOR SMALLEST INFRACTIONS

Invaders Reveal Jitters In Drastic Orders Following Sabotage, Open Fighting.

(By United Press)

LONDON — Invasion-jittery German military authorities have proclaimed all Greece in a state of revolution and ordered the death penalty for even minor infractions of Nazi regulations, the Hellenic News service in Cairo reported today.

Simultaneously, King Peter of Yugoslavia revealed in an interview that he has asked United tates authorities in London to send military missions to his occupied land to aid Gen. Draja Mikhailovitch, patriot leader, in laying the ground work for co-operation of his guerilla army with Allied invasion forces when they land in the Balkans.

The decree proclaiming all Greece in a state of revolution was issued July 1 by the German military governor of northern Greece following pitched battles between Greek guerillas and occupation forces, strikes and sabotage, a Cairo dispatch reported.

Mandatory death was ordered for instigators of disorders, saboteurs and any who attempt to interfere with Nazi regulations.

Reports seeping in from Greece said that guerillas had demolished the Asopos river viaduct—an important communication link—and left it in such a state that it could not be fixed for months.

Envisaging further co-ordination among resisting forces in the Balkans, King Peter said he planned to ask Russia as well as the United States to send military missions to work with Gen. Mikhailovitch.

Coincident with these developments, it was reported that British War Secretary Sir James Grigg was at Gibraltar on an undisclosed mission.

Madrid dispatches, quoting Vichy reports, said chief of government Pierre Laval had gone to Vichy from Paris and that there were rumors the Germans were demanding that the French government move to Paris or Versailles so that it could have better protection in event of a second front.

Madrid said that Fascist efforts to rouse a spirit of resistance in Italy were falling flat and that the Italians were listening to calmer voices, such as that of Vatican Ambassador Count Galeazzo Ciano, who urged that military wisdom be substituted for party fervor.

Seek Construction Of Scenic Highway Near Loudonville

ASHLAND — A petition signed by 36 property owners in the vicinity of Loudonville seeks construction of a post-war scenic highway along the right of way of the T. W. V. and O. railroad, now abandoned, in order to connect state route 3 at Loudonville with state route 62 at Brinkhaven.

The petition is being considered by commissioners of Ashland, Holmes and Knox counties with Pennsylvania railroad officials.

Petitioners point out that the right of way of the abandoned railroad would provide a level highway between Loudonville and Brinkhaven. The old railroad runs through territory "not well served by the highways," the petitioners state, adding that the proposed highway would facilitate marketing and travel and increase value of their land.

REQUESTS CHECK ON SWIM POOLS

Health Commissioner Would Put All Under Rules For Monthly Inspection.

Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, said today he would ask the county health board to place all public and semi-public swimming pools in the county under the same sanitary regulations which control the operation of pools in Mansfield.

He said he had already discussed the plan with the board and the proposal probably would be offered for final action at the board's next meeting on July 31.

If the board extends the inspection program to the county, swimming pools would be checked at least once a year by health officials for possible contamination, and prospective builders of pools would have to get health department approval of building specifications.

Permits showing they had met county health requirements would be issued to pool operators. The department would have the right at any time to revoke the permit if the pools were not being operated according to regulations.

The inspection plan has worked so well in the city that some pool operators in the county have been complying with regulations voluntarily, Dr. Wild said.

The health commissioner said the plan would help protect summer camp residents by making certain that natural and man-made swimming pools are filled with pure water.

FETE SOLDIERS AT BUCYRUS

Hospitality Group To Stage Entertainment For Camp Millard Service Men.

BUCYRUS—Encouraged by the enthusiasm that met the efforts of the special women's hospitality group last week when more than 800 soldiers turned out for a wiener roast and swimming party at Aumiller park, the group voted to hold a similar affair in July when they met at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday afternoon.

The women's group enlarged their efforts by scheduling a meeting July 15 when a representative of the federal security agency will meet with the joint women's group and the recreational committee of the civilian defense council to outline a plan whereby the city may secure a federal grant for carrying on a recreational program.

A report is also expected to be available at that time of what the United Service Organizations have to offer in a recreational program.

Parks Commission Establishes Closing Hours.

The city parks commission today had placed a 10 p. m. closing time on Mansfield parks for children under 16 and a 11 p. m. limit for persons over 16.

Members of picnic parties, however, may remain in the parks until after 11 p. m. if they obtain permits from Park Superintendent Frank Burton and are ready to show the permits if questioned by police or parks officials.

Members of the commission said the closing regulations had become necessary because of the increasing number of young people who frequent the parks at night, many of them small boys who fish in the park lakes until after midnight.

COUNCIL TAKES FINAL ACTION ON S. MAIN JOB

East Fifth and Grover Street Projects Also Acted Upon During Session.

Taking steps to get as many street projects as possible finished before next winter, city council last night cleared the final hurdle in the $75,000 South Main-Lexington avenue widening and resurfacing job set lp a $21,100 resurfacing job on East Fifth street, and passed the first legislation for the improvement of Grover street in the south side of the city.

Action on the proposed improvement of Elmwood drive and Virginia avenue was held up because some council members felt that not all of the work can be completed by next winter.

Contract for the state-city sponsored South Main-Lexington avenue project is scheduled for letting next Tuesday by the state highway department. Also included in the project will be the resurfacing of Marion avenue between Glessner and Cline avenues and Park avenue west from West Park drive to Linden road.

The state will pay $44,000 of the cost, while the city's share is $18,900, and property owners who will benefit from the improvement will be assessed $12,100.

The city has virtually completed the task of obtaining a right-of-way for the widening at the intersection of Main street and Lexington avenue, but council last night authorized condemnation proceedings to permit the city to get clear title to six parcels of land on South Main street near the intersection.

The property is a part of the Boleratz estate and some of the heirs have not been located, making it necessary to condemn the land to get title to it in time to start the improvement this summer, City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner said. Council appropriated $1,500 in parking meter funds to pay for the six parcels and finance court costs.

The East Fifth street resurfacing from Main street to the Pennsylvania railroad will cost the city $10,100, of which half is expected to come from the parking meter fund and the rest from the general fund. Property owners will be asked to contribute $6,000 to the cost and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, which has switch tracks in the street, will be assessed approximately $5,000.

Acting at the request of property holders in the two communities, council vacated five feet off the east side of Elmwood drive and a portion of the alley between Educational place and South Adams street.

The Elmwood drive vacation will leave a 40-foot right-of-way for a proposed street improvement project.

Councilman George C. Kyle, who said before the meeting last night that he would introduce legislation requiring taxi firms to post zone maps and rate cards in their cars, withdrew the measure at the last minute and said he wanted to hold it for a future meeting.

The proposed amendment to the city's taxi ordinance would require firms to file information with the mayor to show the number and capacity of the cabs operated, bus schedules and rates, and taxi fare schedules.

Transacting miscellaneous business last night, council transferred $1,000 from the Liberty park new building fund to a grading fund to finance the beautification of the hill between the new shelter house and the Coolridge golf course.

Estimated the amount of inactive city funds to be advertised for deposit in banks at $50,000, designated Aug. 3 as the date of deposit, and set the depository period at two years.

Authorized Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff to sell an old water leak detecter in the city waterworks department for not less than $100.

Tabled a proposal to sell an old pumper in the fire department after the service-safety director said he knew nothing of any desire of the fire department to sell it.

Gave the first reading to an ordinance amendment proposed by Councilman Kyle to require truckers to protect sidewalks in residential districts with planks before backing over the walks with heavily loaded trucks.

Appropriated $600 to finish paying for the construction of hard-surfaced runways at the airport. The work was completed recently.

Gave a measure to increase the number of free parking hours in the city its first reading. The amendment to an existing ordinance would require motorists to put money in parking meters only between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. on the six week-days. At present the hours are from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m., five days a week and 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. on Saturday.

MEET TONIGHT

Builders Will Learn of New Housing Plan For City.

Richland county's housing project, approved last Saturday by the federal government, will be explained to building contractors and supply dealers and Mansfield Chamber of Commerce and civilian defense housing committees at a meeting at 8 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Construction of 120 new homes in Mansfield and Shelby and remodeling of 140 residences into two or three-family apartments will be permitted under the FHA project.

With FHA approval, home builders may obtain priorities for materials for residences costing up to $6,000.

The project is expected to relieve the housing shortage in the Mansfield-Shelby area where construction of the Parsel air supply depot and stepped-up war production have attracted hundreds of additional workers.

"ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP AND NOT RATIONED BUT USE IT WISELY"

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Mansfield Tyger Track Tutor Harry the Merry Mehock showed up bright and early on July 5th, which was the 4th this year, at the Wooster road farm home of grid Mentor Paul Snyder, where both of them do a lot of Victory gardening in their spare time.

Correction — Harry the Merry Mehock was early, but not bright, nor even merry.

"What are you doing out here so early in the morning," Snyder inquired, but naturally.

"Well, I'll tell you," said Mehock, "it was like this:

"I got up kinda early this morning, and having nothing else to do I gathered up some old papers and stuck them in the furnace. Then I lit a match to those papers.

"In a few minutes I heard a knock at the back door, and I hurried up the steps and opened the door, and there was a neighbor woman with tears in her eyes, and looking like she might be a bit perturbed, not to say agitated, grief stricken and things.

"I could see at a glance," said Mehock, "that something was wrong. But I didn't know that it was me.

* * *

"Then the neighbor woman spoke like this: 'Just look what you've done,' says she. 'You've ruined my wash. All that soot from your chimney is coming down on my clothes line.'

"The fire from the papers was burning the soot out of my chimney, and she was right, the soot was going all over her newly washed clothes. They were a mess.

"And that is why I am out here so early in the morning. I had to get away from it all.

"But that wasn't the worst of it. 'I got up at five o'clock this morning to get my wash done early, so I could have the holiday,' the lady says.

"I could understand why she was so much put out about it, and why there were tears coming out of her eyes and rolling down her cheeks, and of course I was apologetic and tried to smooth and soothe things over, but there didn't seem to be a whole lot I could do about it.

"I even offered to do her wash over for her," says Mehock, "but that didn't seem to go over either."

Iaegg Sets Sights)n 4-Minute Mile

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Gunder aegg jogged around the Colium oval today limbering up afr a cross-country train trip, but took time off to predict the entual running of a "four mine mile."

The Swedish distance ace, who ngles with Gil Dodds in the twole feature event of the carnival champions at the coliseum Satday, declared:

"A mile will be run in less han four minutes and a Swede ill do it."

Arne Anderson, his countryman o last week set a new world's le mark, may be the man who rns the trick, Haegg said.

He plans to go after the fournute mile himself at San Franco next week. He now holds ry record from 1500 meters to 0 meters except the mile.

As for his efforts here, Haegg d he would be satisfied with a e-minute time in the two-mile, off his best. The record for Coliseum, however, is 9:01.8 d he expects to exceed that.

Yankees Increase Loop Lead

Boost Margin To Three Games Over Washington.

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEXT to trying to find a good steak, the biggest waste of time a baseball fan can indulge in is worrying about the New York Yankees.

The American League champions went west a week ago and lost four games in a row. They nearly skidded out of first place and they caused some hasty comments to the effect that maybe the McCarthymen weren't miracle men after all.

By way of proving that they were only fooling, the champs won three games in the last two days and suddenly zoomed back to a three-game lead. They whacked out a 5-4 decision over the St. Louis Browns last night to give Marius Russo, the sore-armed southpaw, his first victory of the season.

The Yankees' return to control of the league lead has been helped by the slump of the second place Washington Senators, who dropped a 16-inning 4-3 game to the Detroit Tigers yesterday.

After tying the score at two-all on Bob Johnson's homer in the fourth, the Senators battled 11 scoreless innings and took the lead with a run in the top half of the 16th. Then they gave the game away in the Tigers' turn at bat as Gerry Priddy let in one run on an error and relief Pitcher Rae Scarborough forced in the other with two walks. Milo Candini escaped the defeat, being removed for a pinch-hitter in the ninth.

Lefty Al Smith of the Cleveland Indians shut out the Philadelphia Athletics 2-0 on four hits and the St. Louis Cardinals boosted their National league lead back to four games by blanking the Philadelphia Phillies 4-0 on three-hit hurling by Harry Gumbert.

Meanwhile the Brooklyn Dodgers were humbled 9-4 by the Chicago Cubs, who acquired their first triumph of the year in Ebbets field. In the day's only other game the Boston Braves nosed out the Cincinnati Reds 1-0.

Attendance In AA Increased

Runs 10 To 11 Per Cent Over Last Year.

(By Associated Press)

President George Trautman says the American Association's attendance is running 10 to 11 per cent above that of last year. And the individual teams are doing their bit, as ever, to stir up interest. Here it is time to start the second half of the season and the sixth-place team is only eight games behind the league leaders.

All action shifts to the east today. Milwaukee holds a two-game freshly won advantage over Indianapolis, Columbus is only 5½ games behind after splitting a twin bill with Toledo last night, Minneapolis is 6½ games back and St. Paul trails by seven.

* * *

Toledo's Mud Hens beat the Columbus Red Birds in last night's first game, 2 to 0, but the Red Birds won the second 4 to 3 in 13 innings.

Milwaukee played the Great Lakes Naval Training Station team to a 1 to 1 tie in a game called after 10 innings to permit the Brewers to catch a train.

Bums Really Become Bums, Ebbet's Field Haunted

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK — (INS) — Ebbet's Field is like a haunted house these days, like a great palace which once knew grandeur and suddenly finds itself a sort of tombstone to recent greatness. Maybe it's the war. Maybe it's merely the turn of the wheel which says you are up there today and down tomorrow; maybe it's only imagination, but somehow it seems that the rollicking high jinks have gone taking along the colorful, hustling ball club we used to know and in the stead of these things there is a drabness that fetters everybody.

The New York Press has virtually conceded by this time that the Dodgers have blown the National league pennant. There is small chance of their catching up on the St. Louis Cardinals now, and some even question that they will be able to finish in the first division.

Much of this is blamed on the new regime which declined chances to strengthen the club by acquiring players that were shuttled about by other teams in the circuit, but, in any case, Ebbet's Field isn't the same. Even the bar room is subdued, where it used to be a place of post-game gatherings that never knew a dull moment.

Now a few drop by for a quick one and tear on off for other places, and the atmosphere is something like it used to be in those terribly dull days before Larry MacPhail came on for a too short tenure.

The socializing is far less interesting and so is the baseball. When you call the Dodgers bums now it isn't a team of endearment, but really descriptive of what they look like on the ball field. They are pretty rank. To make it worse there is no hope in sight.

* * *

Some observers of all this will tell you that the change is for the better, that Branch Rickey is a sound business man and knows what he is about. That could be, too. I personally think, however, that when the Dodgers lost MacPhail they lost all that they were and can hope to be for a long time. The Dodgers have had sound business behind them before now. Perhaps not sound baseball as exemplified by Rickey, but what good is background and reputation that fails in the wake of success.

There is no getting away from the fact that the Dodgers are a peculiar ball club in a peculiar setup and a club that needs a peculiar front office. MacPhail fitted in perfectly.

If this sounds like a tough rap at Rickey it isn't meant to be. He will give them a business like and perhaps successful front office, but can you imagine him out there taking punches at sports writers, carrying on feuds with anybody who will start one, screaming and hollering and weeping and goading a club on to extravagantly colorful feats?

This reporter was reminded of the great and lasting chance only last night again while attending the Chicago Cubs' 9 to 4 victory over the phlegmatic, listless Dodgers.

The worst part of it is the Dodgers probably won't snap out of it and thus are doomed to lose their identity as the "Bums," a word which meant that this club was the most popular nationally in many years and perhaps in the history of baseball. All that is gone now. Ebbet's Field is a haunted house.

Colt Pacers Take Over Randall Track

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Six of the nation's fastest-stepping two-year-old pacers will line up today in the $2,625 national stake, feature event at North Randall's grand circuit track.

* * *

Included in the field is Attorney, winner of the American pacing stake last Friday. The favorite paced to victory in second and third heats to take the American, first major victory for owner C. H. Wilkinson, Logansport, Ind..

* * *

Sep Palin will be in the sulky behind Attorney today, vieing with Goodbye and Probationer, other strong contenders.

In yesterday's feature attraction, the $1,995 Geers stake to three-year-old pacers, Adios stepped a 2:03½ first mile to fashion a straight-heat victory. The first heat was the fastest mile paced this year.

Princess Mite, Volomite-sired trotter owned by C. C. Adelman, of Mt. Vernon, O., won in straight heats in the Senator Farm stake, and paid $35 for $2 at the mutuels for the first whirl.

ADAMS PICKED FOR BATTING PRACTICE

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Ace Adams of the New York Giants will serve as batting practice pitcher for the National league in the All-Star game, President Ford Frick of the Senior circuit announced today.

Adams was selected after Si Johnson of the Phillies declined.

CAMDEN HANDICAP SET AS OPENING FEATURE

CAMDEN, N. J. —(U.P.)— Approximately 12,000 persons were expected at Garden State Park today for the opening of a 50-day racing program. Feature of the eight-race initial program was the six-furlong Camden handicap, a $5,000 dash for nine horses.

Valdina Alpha was the pre-race favorite for the sixth and feature race. Cassis, holder of the 1:10 1-5 track record for six furlongs, is also highly regarded.

Al Smith Turns In Shutout

Indians Salvage One Game From Athletics.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Back in the victory column after Al Smith's four-hit night performance that whipped the Philadelphia Athletics last night, the Cleveland Indians play the A's again today and then tie into Washington's second place Senators for four games.

* * *

Last night's game was a single-inning affair as far as the pay-off was concerned, the Indians scoring two runs in the last of the eighth—their first two earned runs in 26 innings against the last place Athletics.

* * *

Smith allowed only three singles and a double, with no two hits in the same inning. Jo-Jo White got the two-baser, matching Ken Keltner's only other extra base hit of the game.

The traditional inability of the Indians to score from scoring position was continued by a wierd double play that was called by the umpiring staff only after Connie Mack dug into the rule book.

In the first inning Oris Hocket singled, Lou Boudreau walked, and both advanced on a sacrifice. Keltner bounded to Pitcher Orrie Arntzen and Hockett was caught in a rundown between third and home, Keltner moving to second and Boudreau to third.

Hockett then took flight toward open country, chased by Philadelphia Catcher Bob Swift and the baseball. Swift paused to tag Boudreau standing on third base and then caught Hockett. The umpires ruling both men out because Hockett was tagged off base and Boudreau had no right there in the first place.

STILL WINLESS

BOSTON—(AP)— Still wondering what it's like to win a baseball game in Boston during the current season, the Cincinnati Reds take to the field against the Braves for a doubleheader today.

On their first visit to Beantown in mid-May the Reds lost a series of three. Yesterday they dropped a nip and tuck pitchers' battle 1 to 0.

Lanky Al Javery, Boston right-hander who was shelled from the mound last Saturday in the first round against the Pittsburgh Pirates, turned in an all around performance in white-washing the Reds and besting Ray Starr.

Besides scattering six hits, he singled in the only run of the game in the second after Clyde Kluttz doubled.

Never known as a "running team," the Reds blew their only two chances to score by over ambitious baserunning. Eddie Miller, who is somewhat speedier than Ernie Lombardi, was thrown out at home in the fourth inning attempting to score from first base on Steve Mesner's double over short.

Gee Walker, who is unpredictable on the baselines, was tagged at third when he tried to take two bases on Frank McCormick's slow roller to Johnny McCarthy in the eighth.

Manager Bill McKechnie will start Bucky Walters and Elmer Riddle in today's contests. Nate Andrews and Manuel Salvo will hurl for the Braves.

COACHING STAFF OF ALL STARS COMPLETED

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— The coaching staff of the College All-Stars who will play the world professional champion Washington Redskins at Evanston, Ill. on Aug. 25, was completed today with the addition of Frank Leahy of Notre Dame.

Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin heads the All-Star staff. It's other members are Babe Horrell of UCLA, Wallace Butts of Georgia and Lt. Tony Hinkle of Great Lakes.

VIOLATORS CAUGHT

COLUMBUS — (INS) — One hundred and thirty-nine arrests for violations of fish and game regulations were made during June in Ohio.

Golf Star Joins Spars

Golfer Betty Hicks of Long Beach, Cal., one of the nation's outstanding women links experts, is shown admiring her new SPARS' uniform. Betty, who was defeated in the quarter-finals of the Women's Western Open golf tourney in Chicago when she gallantly called a penalty on herself, was sworn into the Coast Guard auxiliary at the Glen Oaks Country club, where the tourney was held.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Arne Andersson, Sweden's newest mile record-breaker, is due to try for another of Gunder Haegg's records tomorrow and this time the track fans hereabouts will be ready. . . . Since Arne's 4:02.6 mile last week they've heard a lot about various Swedish steppers, including Andersson, who has run 1,500 meters in 3:48.6, a half mile in 1:50.8, 3,000 meters in 8:11.4 and 5,000 in 14:18.2. . . . Gil Dodds, America's best miler, set his own record for 1,500 at 3:50.2 in winning this year's national title

WHERE'S THE PLATE.

Discussing some of the young flingers in his pet project, the International league, baseball historian Ernie Lanigan recently unearthed a yarn about Charles Comiskey's pitching career to prove that the modern kids have fairly good control. . . . The "Old Roman," one of the game's greatest first basemen, broke in as a hurler with lots of speed and not much else. . . . In his first game in the old American Association in 1882, the unidentified reporter relates, he beaned three Columbus players and after the game Chris Von Der Ahe, owner of the St. Louis club, advised him to quit pitching before he was arrested. . . . "It's dis vay, Commie," explained Chris, "If I keep you for a pitcher dere will be only one team in der Association. You will kill every player in der odder clubs."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE.

Old Johnny Risko, discharged from the army because of a game leg and advanced age, has pared his weight down to 200 pounds but says he isn't thinking of a comeback unless they want to toss him in with Tony Galento. "He's one guy I could still trim," says John. . . . Clark Shaughnessy, jr., former U. C. L. A. athlete, reported for work on the Chicago Daily News sports desk at 5 a. m. last Friday, edited the sports pages through the first edition, then went out and won the javelin throw at the Central A. A. U. track meet.

Pancho, of the two-handed grip, will be in top form for the Sept. 1-6 festivities at Forest Hills while the three men who rated ahead of him—Ted Schroeder, Frankie Parker and Gardner Mulloy—are in service and play only occasionally . . .

Dan Ferris, the distinguished secretary of the National AAU, reveals that plans are being made to bring Arne Andersson, the newest Swedish travel marvel, to the United States for the indoor campaign this winter. Andersson has done fairly well to date, considering that 4:02.6 world record for the mile.

Johnny Longden, a solemn-faced little Canadian, is a pretty fair judge of horse flesh. He's the man who has been aboard Count Fleet in each of the Hertz Hurricane's victories. So it's pretty straight dope when he rates Chop Chop as the second best three-year-old now that Blue Swords is on the shelf.

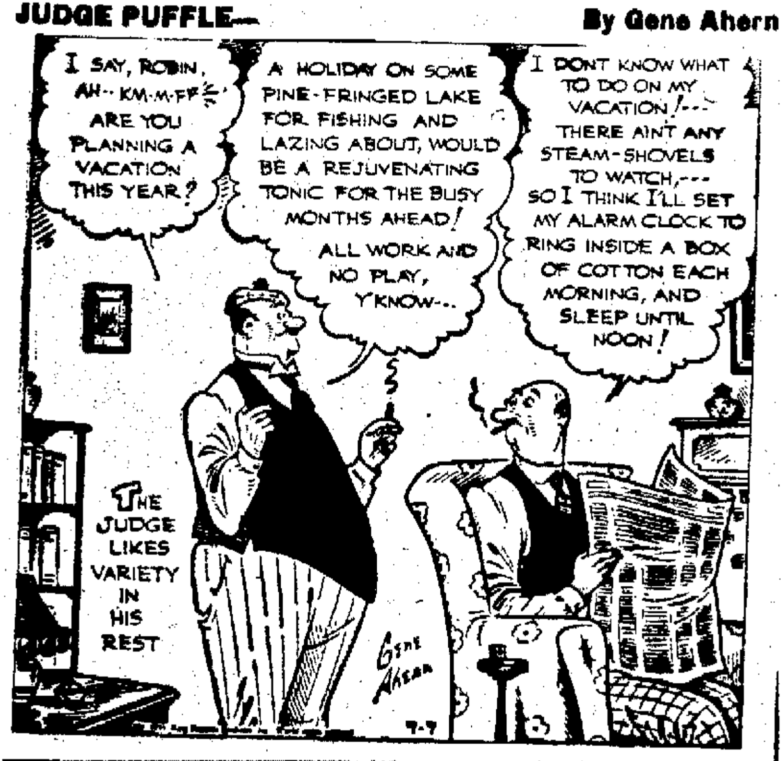
JUDGE PUFFLE— By Gene Ahern



I SAY, ROBIN, AH-- KM-M-FF -- ARE YOU PLANNING A VACATION THIS YEAR?
A HOLIDAY ON SOME PINE-FRINGED LAKE FOR FISHING AND LAZING ABOUT, WOULD BE A REJUVENATING TONIC FOR THE BUSY MONTHS AHEAD! ALL WORK AND NO PLAY, Y'KNOW--.
I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO DO ON MY VACATION!--- THERE AIN'T ANY STEAM-SHOVELS TO WATCH,--- SO I THINK I'LL SET MY ALARM CLOCK TO RING INSIDE A BOX OF COTTON EACH MORNING, AND SLEEP UNTIL NOON!

MIXED PRICE CHANGES MARK STOCK ACTION

Resumption of Commercial Traffic With Africa Expected Soon.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Price changes were mixed in a narrow range at the opening of the stock market today as investors sought to evaluate implications of the latest developments in the Pacific and in Russia.

Ahead fractionally in quiet dealings were Radio Corporation, Chesapeake & Ohio, American Telephone and Montgomery Ward. Off a shade were Bethlehem, Douglas and Great Northern.

Holders of shares in concerns which might profit from foreign trade studied a report that a board of economic warfare spokesman had told a group of importers and exporters resumption of traffic with North and West Africa might be expected soon. It was also indicated consideration had been given to safeguarding business with Australia, New Zealand, India and China.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Grains opened strong today but soon dropped below the previous close when heavy profit-taking entered all pits. Declines were confined to less than a cent.

Wheat started 1-8c lower to ½c higher, July $1.49, September $1.48⅞-1.49¼, and rye was ½c lower to 2¾c higher, July $1.15-1.13.

HUGE BLIMPS PATROL COAST OF CALIFORNIA

Giants of Air, Eyes of Navy, Keep Subs Away From U. S. Shores.

(By International News Service)

SANTA ANA, Cal.—Uncle Sam feels safe in saying "It can't happen" along the southern California coast—his watchdogs are on the prowl!

Huge blimps, on guard 24 hours a day, are making sure that Axis undersea maurauders keep a safe distance from America's shores. The 13½-ton giants of the ozone are the eyes of the navy.

The watchdogs are "kenneled" at the Naval air station here, one of the newest of Uncle Sam's lighter-than-air bases. Capt. Howard N. Coulter, Annapolis graduate of 1921, is the commanding officer.

One of the youngest captains in naval service, Capt. Coulter served on the dirigibles Los Angeles, Akron and Macon. He has 3,200 flying hours of aviation duty and what he doesn't know about lighter-than-air craft wouldn't fill much of a book.

"Lighter-than-air craft activities practically ceased after the series of disasters to rigid dirigibles," Captain Coulter launched his story of blimp operations. "However, there were a number of confirmed enthusiasts who understood the true value of these craft.

"The general board of the navy held the opinion that there is an extremely useful field for the non-rigid airship such as those which operate from this base. Their work is that of coastal patrol, observation and anti-submarine and anti-mine tactics.

"A sub commander," he went on, "hates the sight of a blimp! Its presence means he cannot surface and take pot shots at ships. If he stays down under the water that's where he can do the least damage.

"East coast sinkings by submarines have decreased in proportion to the increased use of the airship for patrol and convoy escort. No airship-escorted vessel has been lost in this war nor in World War I by torpedo fire. The presence of airship patrol squadrons on the west coast will prevent repetition of such sinkings here. That's the job we're doing today."

Weather is still the headache of all types of aircraft but the blimp is more capable of operating under disagreeable circumstances than heavier-than-air craft, Captain Coulter declared.

Like all air stations, Santa Ana is well equipped to handle the weather situation. The weather bureau supplies operations officers with the latest information gathered from all corners of the world. It also does its bit in predicting weather for this area.

The station is just a "five-month-old baby" but improvements are being made daily. The cost of blimps and equipment is undisclosed, but navy men believe that congress has provided funds to assure an adequate blimp patrol of our coastline when present construction is completed.

In other words, Uncle Sam as saying "It won't happen here," instead of "It can't happen here."

Give Hands Extra Care In Summer

By MME. QUI VIVE

Every woman regards her hands with sorrow when they fall below beauty par, and they're taking a terrible drubbing this summer, with so much gardening and rough work being done. Extra efforts must be made to keep them in form. That hands shall be scrupulously clean, skin surface velvety smooth, finger tip sheaths manicured and glossed is taken for granted. There is one sweet reward; feminine mitts look capable and efficient.

With hands, as with faces, expression is a good looks item. Contour may not appeal, but that makes little difference if movements are graceful. They can be beautifully passive, resting in the lap with fingers neatly posed. They speak a language of their own. They beckon, do a come hither as do the eyes. They threaten with pointed finger. They express distress when clasped together, palm to palm, fingers tightly pressed.

Nervous hands are a torment to some observers. There are men, women and children who keep eternally picking at the cuticle around their finger nails. They are not restful companions.

The cure for jittery fingers is found in perfect grooming. There must be no rag-tags of skin at the sides of the finger nails. They can be prevented by soaking the hands in warm soap suds, rinsing, drying, anointing with oil or cuticle cream, passing the orange wood stick under the flesh so that it is detached from the nail fabric. Nail eaves must be smooth. Anyone who has a rough or broken eave can't refrain from fussing with it. Sensitive nerves are at the finger ends, and sometimes they itch to be frictioned; that causes the rubbing of finger tips that is the habit of some nervous individuals.

Gestures should be restrained. Some young ladies think it is cute to do a lot of needless arm waving which exhausts them and the beholder as well.

No Smoking.

There's a rule on the movie lots that you douse your cigarets when the cameras go into action so there'll be no chance of smoke spoiling the film. On the set of "Action in the North Atlantic," now at the Ohio, as the cameras began to grind, Director Lloyd Bacon, dutifully ordered, "No Smoking. All cigarets out!" That, as the great fire on the deck of the sinking tanker poured forth billowing clouds of thick smoke.

Two Weeks To Live.

Lum and Abner invade the big city to check on Abner's inheritance of a railroad, to which the citizens of Pine Ridge have added the sum of $10,000 for the purchase of rights of way. A minor accident to Abner and an erroneous verdict by the doctor that he only has two weeks to live leaves them only that much time to raise the money entrusted them by the good people of the "Jot 'Em Down" district. All this happens in "Two Weeks to Live," now at the Madison. The co-feature is "Hoppy Serves a Writ."

and Milo airfields were assaulted by South African Bostons and Baltimores and British Bostons. The same night heavy British bombers of the Middle East command pounded railway installations at Catania, eastern Sicilian port.

Axis fighter opposition which reached a crescendo Monday, when more than 100 war planes attacked a single formation of 27 Flying Fortresses, dwindled yesterday to almost nothing, returning pilots reported. The fourth day of the concentrated attack on Sicily's airfields from here saw the score stand at 110 Axis craft destroyed against an Allied loss of 19.

Veteran observers cautioned against jumping to the conclusion that the Allies have won complete air supremacy over Sicily, but the sudden falling off in enemy fighter interception indicated the Germans had lost most of their Sicilian-based land planes and were in need of reinforcements.

Only one small group of enemy fighters approached an American bombing mission yesterday, and escorting Lightnings drove them off.

RAF Lays Mines In Enemy Waters

LONDON —(AP)— RAF bombers conducted extensive minelaying operations in enemy waters last night while speedy Mosquitos manned by Canadian crews attacked railway targets in France, the air ministry announced today.

One bomber was lost in these forays, the announcement said.

Two enemy fighter planes few over the East Anglia district early last evening and at one joint a few persons were wounded by machinegun fire. There was no enemy activity over Britain after dark, however.

British planes carried out patrols during the night and one fighter was listed as missing.

Spitfires destroyed eight enemy fighters over northern France yesterday without loss, it was reported.

Fairfax Gives Answers to Servicemen

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

If you're in the service—soldier, sailor, marine or coast guardsman—and you have a problem regarding insurance, allowances and allotments, or desire information regarding any other branch of the service, write to Beatrice Fairfax, care of this paper.

Beatrice Fairfax lives in Washington, and will be glad to get in touch with War and Navy departments, through press liaison officers of these branches of the service, to give your problems correct answers. She will also answer questions in her column for those who do not ask for personal reply.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I'd like to do something for defense but feel that apart from rolling bandages for the Red Cross, I'm not qualified. Do you know of anything else a seamstress could do? MARY.

Dozens of such letters have come to this column from women who feel the urge to do more active work than the very essential job of rolling bandages. The Office of War Information says: "If you've made buttonholes on a machine, you can spot-weld a plane bound for Berlin and take your place among the millions of American women on the labor front." Consult the nearest U. S. Employment office. You can get the address from your phone book or post office.

Dear Miss Fairfax: May a Japanese born in the United States vote in elections other than those concerning schools?

EX-CALIFORNIAN.

The Supreme Court refused to review a decision of the Federal Circuit Court in San Francisco that Japanese born in the United States are American citizens and entitled to vote. John T. Regan had challenged the ruling, declaring that "dishonesty, deceit and hypocrisy are racial characteristics of the Japanese," and therefore are not fit to be American citizens.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I was in the Army for three months. As I am past 38 years I had a chance to accept a defense job which I did, and was released from the Army. I was given an honorable discharge and was found to be in good health when relieved.

If anything should show up, such as an injury or illness due to having been in the service, am I eligible to use the Veterans hospitals? EX-SOLDIER.

The honorably discharged soldier may report his condition to the Veterans' Administration. If examination proves that the injury or illness was due to service in the army, he may be eligible for medical benefits.

Dear Miss Fairfax: What is the percentage of deaths from wounds in this war? Are there any figures on this question? M. S.

The percentage of deaths from wounds has been greatly reduced, due to modern medical treatment with blood plasma and sulfa drugs. Statistics on one of the great battles show only one per cent of those wounded have died.

ALL WORKERS ON CITY JOBS ASK $35 RAISE

Council Hears Appeal of 165 Employes, Sets Date For Meeting on Request.

Spokesmen for Mansfield's 165 city employes today had won a hearing with city council for next Tuesday night on their request for pay increases of $35 a month for every city worker. The salary boosts, if granted, would total $69,000, City Auditor Paul L. Kelley estimated.

Comprising the biggest delegation to attend a Mansfield council session in recent years, more than 40 police and fire department members and labor leaders went before council last night with their appeal for pay raises to meet the increasing cost of living.

The audience was so big that council moved to the municipal courtroom for its meeting, and there still wasn't enough seats for all the visitors.

Acting on the suggestion of Detective Lee Remy, spokesman for the police department, council agreed to meet as a unit committee with police and fire department representatives and labor leaders Tuesday night to consider the requests for pay increases.

"This task is too big for a three-member council committee, so I recommend that we meet in a body with the police and fire committee to work something out of these requests," said Councilman C. N. Shultz of the Second ward.

Labor officials will be admitted to the session at the request of Rudy Schneider, Mansfield A. F. of L. chairman, who sat in on last night's meeting with Phillip Schwaner, chairman of the joint CIO-A. F. of L. civic committee, and a number of other labor representatives.

Members of the police committee on salaries are Remy, Oscar Krupp, and Roeliff Hout. On the fire department committee are Capt. F. R. Stahl, Capt. L. R. Zimmerman, and Harold W. George.

Capt. Stahl told council last night that firemen were faced with the problem of not being able to meet the rising living costs with their present incomes and urged early action to raise the men's pay.

The campaign for more pay, which started with the police and firemen last week, gained momentum yesterday and three petitions bearing the names of 148 city workers in all departments were turned over to council last night. One petition represented police and firemen, another the seven employes of the engineering and sewer departments, and the third carried the signatures of 77 other workers in various departments who asked that the increase benefit every city employe.

Schultz told the delegation at last night's session that council would have to meet in special session next week, anyway, to consider two or three other matters, and members would be in a better position then to give the salary increase requests more time and thought.

GETS 4 MESSERSCHMITTS

FATHER SAVES 5 FROM FIRE

Enables Wife, Four Children To Escape Blaze.

LORAIN —(INS)— A 28-year-old steelworker today was recovering from cuts and burns in a Lorain hospital, cheerful in the knowledge that heroic action on his part saved the lives of four of his children in a fire which destroyed their home.

The father, John G. Osko of Sheffield Lake, enabled his two sons and two daughters, the oldest of which is 5, escape to safety in the early morning fire. After seeing that his wife and children were safe, Osko plunged through a glass window of the one-story residence to escape death himself.

Osko told firemen that he had been awakened by the cries of his youngest child, 18 months old.

lots had been captured. One of the prisoners was said to have told Red army officers that he was a member of the seventh detachment of the first squadron of dive bombers and had been based in Yugoslavia prior to the start of the new German offensive.

The Russians said that despite the heavy reinforcements to the German air forces the enemy had failed to achieve air superiority and that in one sector alone 45 planes were downed.

Nazi Reserves Rushed To Front

LONDON—(INS)—The Nazi-controlled Vichy radio today quoted a Berlin spokesman as stating that German reserves are being rushed to some points on the Russian front "particularly threatened by Soviet attacks."

The spokesman declared that the current battle on the southern front has not yet reached its peak of intensity and that fighting on a still larger scale must be expected soon.

U-Boat Crews Riot At Kiel, Report

LONDON —(INS)— Recurring reports of mounting unrest among Nazi U-boat crews received new impetus today with a Stockholm dispatch to Reuter's news agency telling of serious outbursts among German naval detachments at Kiel.

So grave were the outbreaks that SS detachments were forced to occupy the Kiel navy yard for two days last week, the agency said. Both seamen and workers participated in the demonstration, during which hundreds of leaflets were distributed bearing such slogans as "the U-boat war is lost!", "don't sail the floating coffins!", "let's end the war!" and "down with Hitler!"

U. S. BLASTS 10 JAP WARSHIPS IN KULA FIGHT

cargo ship and one American cruiser were sunk.

Following up the latest victory, Dauntless dive bombers and Avenger medium bombers scored seven direct hits with 500-pound bombs on a damaged Japanese destroyer which had been beached after the battle near Bambera harbor.

American torpedo and dive bombers also dropped 26 tons of explosives on Bairoko harbor, supply harbor for Munda on the northwestern coast of New Georgia.

Eighteen enemy bombers struck at American positions on Rendova shortly after noon yesterday, causing moderate casualties and damage, but three were shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

The Japanese threw 27 bombers and 21 escorting fighters against Darwin in northwestern Australia at noon yesterday but caused only slight damage to ground installations. Spitfires intercepted the raiders and destroyed five and perhaps seven bombers and two fighters, but lost seven of their own aircraft—their worst defeat to date.

Japanese planes also raided Allied positions at Bena Bena, 90 miles northwest of Lae in New Guinea, and Nassau bay, south of Salamaua, where American forces landed last week. No damage or casualties were reported.

Stilwell Honors Chiang Kai-Shek

CHUNGKING — (INS) — American Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell, commander of United States forces in China, today conferred the Legion of Merit on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in the name of President Roosevelt.

The same award in lesser degrees was bestowed on three other Chinese generals.

The awards were made on the occasion of the sixth anniversary of the start of Japan's undeclared war on China.

Japs Report Battle Of Kula Gulf

LONDON —(INS)— The German radio today broadcast a Japanese communique asserting that on Monday night (Solomons time) Nipponese naval and air squadrons attacked "a superior enemy fleet" in Kula bay.

Uncertain as to the size of the opposing naval units, the Jap communique said that the force consisted of 10 to 20 cruisers and destroyers. It was stated that one cruiser was sunk and another set afire.

Calls For Action Against Japs Now

CHUNGKING—(AP)— Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek issued a call today to the United Nations to strike at once in force against Japan because now, he declared, is the opportune moment "to reap great results" in reducing the time and cost of final victory."

In a message to the people of the Allied nations on the anniversary of the day six years ago that China was attacked, the war leaders asserted Japan now "is at her weakest as her ready resources are approaching a point of exhaustion."

"Should we let her have further respite to complete impregnable defenses and to wage a long drawn-out war with us," he added, "the time and price the Allies will have to pay to defeat her will be many times longer and heavier than what are required today."

General Chiang told his own people in another message that the time limit for utter defeat of the Japanese invasion armies "cannot exceed two years."

He assured his own people that this would be "the decisive year" of the war, one in which the foundation of ultimate victory will be laid, and a start at least made towards driving out the invaders through "an unending stream of victories."

Lieutenant Finds Not All Japanese Soldiers Are Runts

(By United Press)

GUADALCANAL — Lieut. (jg.) E. H. Johnson, of Orlando, Fla., always had thought of the Japanese soldiers as bandy-legged runts, and the sight of ten of them, all big enough to be heavyweight boxers, was almost too much for him.

Johnson, a navy Wildcat fighter pilot, spent 10 days in the Japanese-occupied New Georgia islands group after bailing out on June 7 when 20 Zeros riddled his plane.

In his wanderings from one small island to another, he came to a hut in the jungle. Inching forward on his belly to make as little noise as possible, he saw the 10 Nipponese working about the building.

"All of them were husky," he told his amazed mates after his rescue, "and one was at least six feet four inches tall. If I hadn't been on the ground, I would have fainted with surprise.

"You hear so much about them being undersized—well this bunch would have made a fair-sized football team."

He got out of there in a hurry.

Johnson, recovering from minor injuries and exposure, said the Zeros tried to machine-gun him as he parachuted to earth, and, after his chute caught in a tree, he had to keep dodging from one side of the trunk to the other to escape them.

He built a raft from parts of wrecked rafts that had been washed ashore and floated between the islands for several days, living on cocoanuts and chocolate rations. Finally he induced a native to give him food and water and made his way back to the beach where he waited two more days before he was picked up by a U. S. flying boat on June 17, and taken to an advanced hospital.

proceedings," issuing "secret orders from which there is no appeal."

Maas said he was preparing a bill that would require the WPB to make all its decisions public, in the case of each newspaper or magazine publication requesting additional white paper, how much time was required handling the case, why the delay, if any, and the entire proceedings would be submitted to congress each month.

"This procedure will assure to the people that under the guise of rationing a lessened supply of paper will not be abused now or in the future nor used to subversively gain control of the press of this country," said Maas. "With a free press, we will always be a free people."

SUBSIDIES' FATE AGAIN IN BALANCE

Rollback, CCC Program Sent To Committee 'Loaded' In Favor of Compromise.

fused to follow the senate and sent the senate bill to conference.

The senate, in effect, voted to send back to the White House the same bill President Roosevelt vetoed last week and would almost certainly veto again.

Danaher went into the conference conceding that his language would be modified but hopeful that it would clearly reflect continued congressional opposition to the administration's subsidy program.

As in last week's subsidy test, the fate of the Commodity Credit corporation hangs in the balance. The senate attached Danaher's anti-subsidy proposal to a house resolution continuing to Jan. 1, 1944 the life of CCC. The house had adopted the emergency resolution after President Roosevelt's veto killed the previous bill to extend CCC for two years.

The senate adopted Danaher's amendment after voting once yesterday, 32 to 31, to place a $525,000,000 limit on food subsidies to the end of this year and then reversing itself by a vote of 33 to 31.

Taft had proposed the limitation amendment on the grounds that unless congress took such action it might return from a summer recess to find the administration committed to subsidy program that would run into billions of dollars.

The degree of senate opposition to food subsidies was reflected, however, when opposition leaders garnered enough votes in little more than an hour to force reconsideration of the Taft amendment and kill it by a vote of 33 to 31.

When the later vote came on Danaher's clear-cut proposal to outlaw roll-back subsidies, the opposition picked up three more voted to establish its 36-28 majority.

WLB Calls Paper Essential, Union Goes on Strike

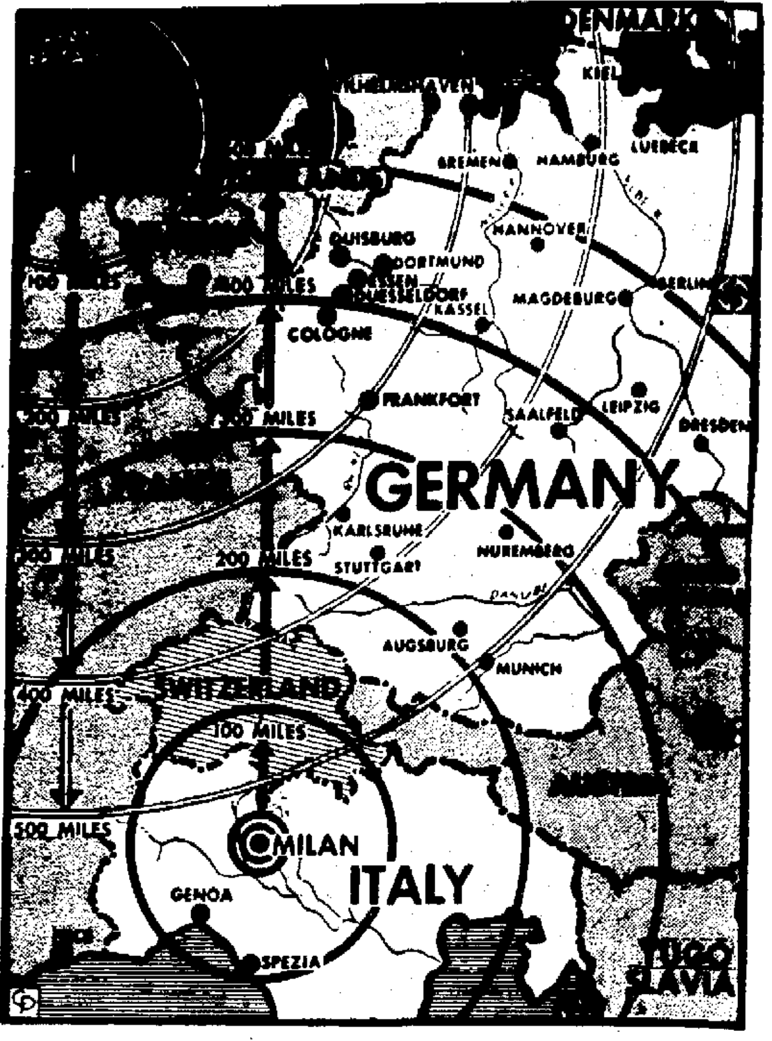
PROVIDENCE, R. I. — (AP) — Members of the Providence Typographical union No. 33 went on strike today in a contract dispute at the Providence Journal company plant and a picket line was established at the building a union spokesman said.

The company announced earlier this week that, in the event of a strike, publication of the Providence Journal, the Evening Bulletin and the Sunday Journal would be suspended pending settlement.

Suspension would mark a break of 114 years of continuous publication in Providence. Earlier the War Labor board had declared that interruption of publication of the city's newspapers would constitute interference with "an essential enterprise."

The board's use of the words "essential enterprise" raised the question whether the dispute might be subject to the recently-enacted War Labor Disputes act which requires 30 days' notice of a strike and opens the way for damage suits against any employe representatives responsible for filing such notice with the government who may fail to do so.

Importance Of Italy's Fall



A GRAPHIC PICTURE of what will happen to Nazi Germany when Italy falls and the Lombardy Plain in northern Italy is made available for basing Allied bombers, is shown on this map. Areas not now within easy reach of bombers based on England where Hitler is concentrating much of his essential industry, could then be blasted just as the Ruhr valley is being devastated today. No part of the Reich would be immune to attack.

$381,983 CITY BUDGET OK'D

Planned Street Repair, Sewer Programs Responsible For Increase Over '43.

and sewer improvements were available and additional funds were set up to finance them. Actual expenditures for this year probably will almost equal the amount council is asking for 1944 operations although the 1943 appropriation measure doesn't show it.

The budget will now go to the county budget commission which will pare it down to meet income estimates for next year if reductions are necessary. The city's 1944 tax rate also will be set by the commission on the basis of the requests for operating funds.

Biggest increases in the 1944 requests over the 1943 appropriations were in the street repair and storm sewer construction and maintenance funds.

Amount needed for street repairs for next year was placed at $42,580 as against $2,460 appropriated at the beginning of this year. That amount, however, has been boosted considerably by supplemental appropriations since last Jan. 1.

The request this time is for $13,500 in the sewer fund as against $3,500 set up at the beginning of 1943.

In the police department fund, the increase was from $56,465 this year to $59,130 for 1944. The boost in the fire department request was approximately $6,000, bringing the 1944 estimate to $81,750.

The city engineering department wants $10,000 next year, $2,000 more than was appropriated this year, while $6,000 is sought for operation and maintenance of the fire and police alarm systems, an increase of $3,000 over the 1943 appropriation.

There are minor increases in the requests for funds for most departments to cover higher cost of materials and salary increases granted several months ago.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

. . . or how to get along in Alaska

The American soldier in Alaska meets up with a hundred little things that remind him of home. One of them is Coca-Cola. Have a "Coke", says he, and it clicks in the Yukon as it does in Youngstown or Yuma. From pole to pole Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the high-sign between kindly-minded strangers.

CHAPTER XVIII

Texas Fitch helped himself to another sweet potato, doused it with tobasco sauce and consumed it without a flicker.

"Hey, Cowboy—when you're all finished settin' fire to your liver, you might pass that platter down this way!" said little Smitty hungrily. "Ya know, it'll really be a change to eat some of this plain, simple chow, after all them rich, de luxe Automat dishes Mike usually makes."

"Here y'are, Smitty!"

"Keep it in circulation!"

"Next!"

"Coming up!"

Hyman Goldberg watched as they helped themselves to the thick, pink, crispy-edged, clove-studded slices. He watched as they harpooned the sugar-candied yams and flooded them with rich, brown gravy. He watched—and watching, licked his lips. Presently, he stretched and yawned. "Oh, ho, hum!" he said, shrugging with elaborate indifference. "Hey, Tex—if there's any more of that gefulte-fish left, you might pass it down here."

"—Hunh! Ger-whatta fish? You mean this ham, Hymie?"

"Ham? Ham, he say! What ham?" Hastily, Goldberg shovelled four slices onto his plate. "Ham, phooey!" he scoffed. "If you dopes down in Texas have got funny names for things, is it my fault!"

"Aw, hey, now, jeece, Hymie!" Kid Ahearn pleaded "Won'cha please, please, please lemme have just a little teeny, weeny, itsy bit?"

• • •

Hyman Goldberg rolled his eyes toward heaven. "As God is my witness, I'd like to, Kid!" he answered, righteously. "But—no! I mustn't! I can't! I won't! I'll never forget my duties as your manager! And besides—looka, Kid, there ain't any more!"

A Catalina came droning through the late northern twilight, circled the convoy for some minutes and then headed back into the east.

"Looks like he brought a report from up ahead," said Mr Rossi.

"Yes—fog, probably," agreed Captain Elder. "This month's North Atlantic Pilot Chart shows a 30 per cent fog area from Cape Race clear out to Forty-three west."

From the van of the convoy came the throaty hoot of the Cortez's whistle as she signalled for attention. Her Aldis lamp commenced blinking. "'All ships!'" Rossi read. "'Dense fog reported twenty miles ahead. Have spars in readiness for streaming!'"

"M'mph!" grunted Elder. "Spars, eh? Well, it looks like we're in for a pleasant evening! Look there, Joe—those squareheads on Number Forty-eight are getting all set!"

The mate peered ahead at the Norwegian vessel, across whose poop a group of men were lugging a heavy wooden spar.

"Well, ours is already rigged," he said. "It's not just a plain spar, either! I've got a big square of white canvas laced onto it so's it'll float along behind. It looks like a dance-floor! If those chumps back there in Number Sixty-eight can't see it . . . Well!" Mr. Rossi doubled his right fist and shot it, SMACK! into his left palm. "Well, when we get ashore in Murmansk, I'll—I'll . . ."

"Now, now, t'st, t'st, t'st, Mr. Rossi!"

"Okay! Okay, sir! I'll just go aft and make sure the bosun and Blair have got the bridle rigged right."

The pink flush in the sky cooled to purple; the purple deepened and became slate gray. The vessels in the convoy's ranks faded from sharp, clean silhouettes to vague, murky shapes which plodded slowly toward the looming wall of utter darkness which was the fog.

Just before she reached it, the Cortez flashed a signal. "Reduce speed to seven knots. Stream spars." Then there was a pause, punctuated by hesitant flickerings, as though whoever was dictating to the signaller could not make up his mind.

"H'mph! Looks like the old goat's trying to decide whether he wants to say Ker-hapf or Ker-hem! Or maybe he's getting ready to chase himself around right end!" But just then the blinker resumed its flashing. "Good night . . . and good luck . . . signed . . . Hartridge," it read.

"Oh!" said Elder "Oh! That's different!" He raised his hand toward the Cortez in a friendly gesture. "Good night and good luck to you, Admiral!" he murmured.

The great ship plunged into the fog, and was gone.

"God! This is a bad one!" Elder grunted.

Mr. Rossi nodded, the movement dislodging drops of water from his chin, his nose and the brim of his oilskin sou'wester. "I'll say!" he agreed. "Damned stuff's pretty near solid!"

"How many men have you got for'ard?"

"Four, on the foc'sle head. I've got 'em looking straight down at the water. No use their trying to see anything ahead!"

"How's that Norwegian's spar working?"

"All right, so far. We pretty near ran over it, once, but . . ."

A bell clanged on the foc'sle head and a fog-muffled voice shouted, "Spa-a-ar ahead!"

"Ring 'er down!" ordered Elder.

Rossi shoved the telegraph to DEAD SLOW.

"I hope to God that tanker in back of us doesn't chew our spar off!" said Elder, anxiously peering aft. But it was like looking into a dark closet.

"Captain! . . . There!" a shout came from the starboard bridge lookout. "Something white—a spar! Right here in the beam!"

"Ten left!" Elder barked to the man at the wheel. He ran out into the wing and looked over the side. There, sure enough, he saw a track of white foam—heard a dull thump-thumping as the trailing spar dragged against the Merchant Mariner's plates. Slowly, slowly, the ship answered her helm; the thumping ceased, the white track faded and then was swallowed by the murk.

"Whew!" said Elder. "This is worse than playing blind man's buff inside a cow! If we'd slowed down any more, or stopped, we'd have had that tanker astern of us climbing aboard over our taffrail!"

"We would if he's still back there!" said Mr. Rossi, grimly.

• • •

The bosun appeared upon the bridge. "Our spar's gone, sir!" he reported. "Somebody bit the line off lessn' fifty yards astern of us. We're rigging another."

"Who was it—could you see?"

"No, sir, but it wasn't the tanker."

"M'mph! M'mph! Well, it's a cinch the whole convoy's in a mess by now. Couldn't help but be!"

And so, for hour after hour, they stood their unavailing vigil. Always, they were opposed by the consciousness of unseen vessels all around them. Once, somewhat away to port, they heard the rending crunch of steel against steel, hoarse shouts and the sound of thrashing water. Again a vessel drew abeam of them so close that for a single awful instant they could see the white faces of the men on her bridge and feel the hot breath from her funnel; then she slid away from them and vanished like a ghost-ship in the fog.

"Br-rh!" shuddered Mr. Rossi. "Johnny Parker's right! Give me the wide-open spaces of Kansas!"

For a long while they were silent, straining their eyes and their ears; then, "Look up there," said Elder, pointing skyward. "It's getting light; the dawn's leaking through"

"Yes, thank God!" said Rossi. "And it shows that this fog can't go up so very high. Maybe they can use planes to get us herded back together."

LAND BANK LOANS AVAILABLE 2 MORE YEARS, SECRETARY SAYS

Land bank commissioner loans vill be available to Richland couny farmers for two more years as he result of recent action by congress in extending authority to grant the farm loans, Vance Clever, National Farm Loan secretary in Richland county, said today.

Commissioner loans, which were first made available in 1933, are granted for periods of from 10 to 20 years at a five per cent contract interest rate with a reduced interest rate of three and one-half per cent effective through June 30, 1944.

Clever said the loans will be important to the war effort by helping tenants and former farm owners finance the purchase of family-type farms on a long-term, amortized basis comparable to the plan under which housing is being made available to city war workers.

The National Farm Loan association has made more than 350 federal land bank loans totaling approximately $1,350,000 in Richland county, while 211 land bank commissioner loans for $338,100 have been granted to county farmers, Clever said. Of these loans, enough installments had been paid by July 1 to reduce the outstanding balances to $586,664 in the federal land bank loan classification and $138,396 for the land bank commissioner loans.

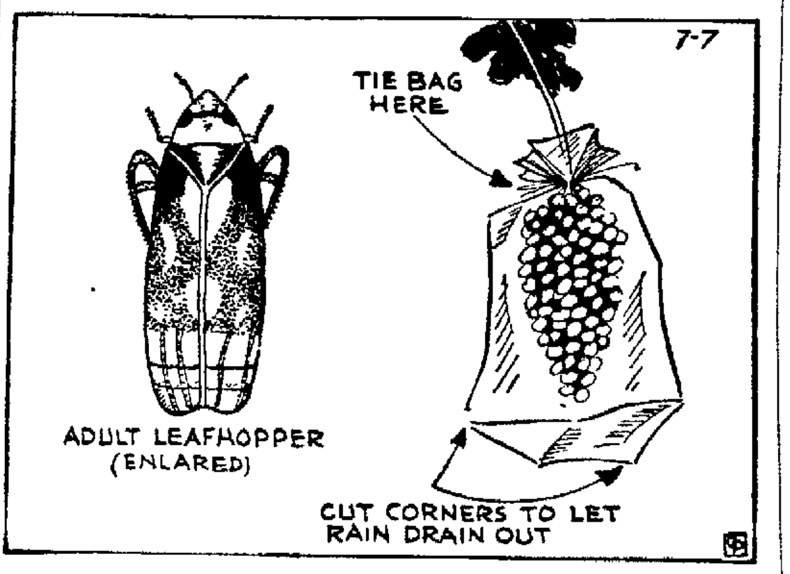
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Look Out for Leafhopper on Victory Garden Grapes.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

If you are carefully tending a few selected grape vines in your Victory garden, keep a look out for the leafhopper. If grape leaves turn a light greenish-yellow, if the vines seem to lack vigor you can suspect the presence of the leafhopper.

The grape leafhopper, enlarged, is illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Although small, this insect is very active. It can be recognized because of its pale yellow coloring with red spots. It is usually found on the underside of the grape leaves.

This pest is difficult to control, since it feeds by sucking the sap from the foliage and not by eating the leaf itself. The best control method is to spray or dust with nicotine. If Bordeaux mixture is being used on the grape vines for other diseases, then add nicotine sulphate to it at the rate of one pint to 100 gallons of spray. The spray should be applied about the time the newly forming grapes begin to touch one another.

If you would have deluxe grapes for table use, resort to "bagging" them, as illustrated. Covering each full bunch of grapes with a paper bag, tied at the top, will protect the fruit from birds and insects and permit it to develop into full size without a blemish. The bottom corners of the paper bag should be snipped off to allow any rain water that may seep into the bag to drain away.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MANUFACTURE AN ENTRY

Some of the prettiest plays in the game are those defensive ones whereby a keen analyst looks ahead and sees that the fate of the contract probably depends upon his manufacturing an entry in the hand of his partner. Usually action of that kind, to be decisive, must be at the earliest possible moment. In other words, the player cannot wait for later tricks to get confirmation of his size-up, but must do it on the basis of meager information, plus his own deductions.

When Richard H. Simon, publisher of books extraordinary, led his heart K, he gave his partner, Grantland Rice, famous sports writer, a chance to make one of the greatest plays of his life. And he rose to the occasion. Confronted with the necessity for a discard, he saw he could not spare a club, as that would limit him to only one instead of two stoppers in the suit. He could not give up a diamond, since surely he would have to furnish the sole protection against the long cards of that suit.

So it had to be a spade. But what spade? In that suit lay the only chance to find his partner with an entry, if South's diamonds happened to be solid. In the hope that West had the J, he discarded the spade K. South won the opening heart trick and finessed the club 8, losing intentionally to East. Mr. Rice returned his spade 4, and South unable to chance West getting the lead, scored with his A. When he then finessed the club 9 to the Q, Mr. Rice led his other small spade, the 6, which West won, enabling him to slaughter the declarer with hearts.

South could have limited himself to down one instead of three, by running his diamonds and two high clubs. But the point of this deal is that his cause was hopeless after the discard of the spake K, whereas discard of a small spade, a diamond or a club would have enabled him to make his contract, if he was merely willing to let East score tricks with the spade K and Q, using his A only when a small spade came along.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, JULY 7, 1943

Buy War Savings Stamps—fill the book.

It's time for a lot of little men, who never built anything, to lay off Henry J. Kaiser and let him work.

Down in Alabama a state senator has introduced a bill making teachers liable to fines of $500 for failing to teach spelling and arithmetic—but isn't that a bit old-fashioned?

One analyst of the income tax compromise says that "it falls hardest on the five to ten thousand dollar guy"—and the boys who gave up farm work to take a job in a war industry probably won't like this.

'Don't Travel' Requests Ignored

FAILURE of efforts to secure public co-operation in voluntary restraint was again evidenced by the extent to which passenger services were jammed over the recent holiday period.

The Office of Defense Transportation, of which Joseph Eastman is director, had made frequent urgent pleas for civilians to avoid other than essential travel over the past week-end, but apparently all holiday travel was considered individually essential and the requests were quite generally ignored.

As a result the congestion at depots and on overburdened trains and buses was unprecedented and it almost seemed that requests had been for everybody to go somewhere, instead of the opposite.

As in the case of rushes to buy scarce merchandise, and in frequent misuse of B and C gasoline ration privileges, the attitude of a considerable number of persons seems to be one of defiance of wartime restrictions rather than willing compliance. The extent to which this manifestation of selfishness can go without seriously retarding the war effort and interfering with the general welfare cannot be accurately estimated, but it is considerable.

Bricker's 'Log-Cabin' Candidacy

PLACED in leading position in this week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post, an article by Forrest Davis, an associate editor of the Post, provides an interesting example of good writing of hastily gathered material on a timely subject, in which the desire of the author is to be pleasant, entertaining and informative and to carefully avoid appearance of being even mildly critical.

The article, captioned "The Log-Cabin Candidate," has to do with the life story of Ohio's governor, John W. Bricker, for whom a log-cabin birthplace is improvised as a legendary integral part of the more modern structure on the ancestral farm in Pleasant township, Madison county, where the governor was born.

It is as an aspirant for the 1944 Republican presidential nomination that Governor Bricker is given kindly treatment by this interviewer and biographer, and there is little likelihood, on this occasion, that Mr. Bricker will make any claim of having been misquoted.

At one point, however, the writer departs from laudation to the extent of saying that Bricker's address to the Academy of Political Science in New York, last April 7, "was substantially a failure, giving rise to talk in New York and Washington that Bricker had 'cooked his goose'."

But it is then explained: "The governor, harassed by his legislature and victim of the careless habit of Ohio politicians, had not prepared his address adequately."

Studiously avoided in the article is any reference to the record-breaking budget with which Governor Bricker has burdened the taxpayers of Ohio this year, his failure to evidence any qualifications of leadership by which the legislative fumbling that extended through almost six months of time-wasting controversy might have been avoided, and his silence in connection with recent work stoppages in Ohio coal mines when governors of all other coal-producing states were giving frank expression of their views on this subject.

The article concludes: "The question before the Bricker backers at this point is whether he can impress his Ohio worth on the people of the remaining states between now and next June."

As viewed in Ohio, the real question seems to be whether Mr. Bricker will soon realize that he has no chance of being nominated for the presidency, that if nominated he could not be elected, and that, if elected, he would be utterly incompetent to fill that high office, either during a period of global warfare or in postwar reconstruction.

The example of Governor Dewey, of New York, is commended to Governor Bricker, of Ohio. The former is devoting himself to performing the duties of the office to which he was elected. The latter is gallivanting around the country trying to promote his hopeless presidential aspirations.

Children Who Roam at Night

RESORT to a "curfew" in a number of cities disturbed by increase in juvenile delinquency and immorality, has resulted in lively discussion of this subject in Mansfield, with suggestion that a similar course be followed here.

Extent to which public supervision of children should be substituted for parental authority is debatable, but if, as reported by observers, it is customary for a number of Mansfield boys and girls of the lower teen-age to be on the streets and in the vicinity of resorts until toward midnight, or even later, it would seem high time to discourage the practice.

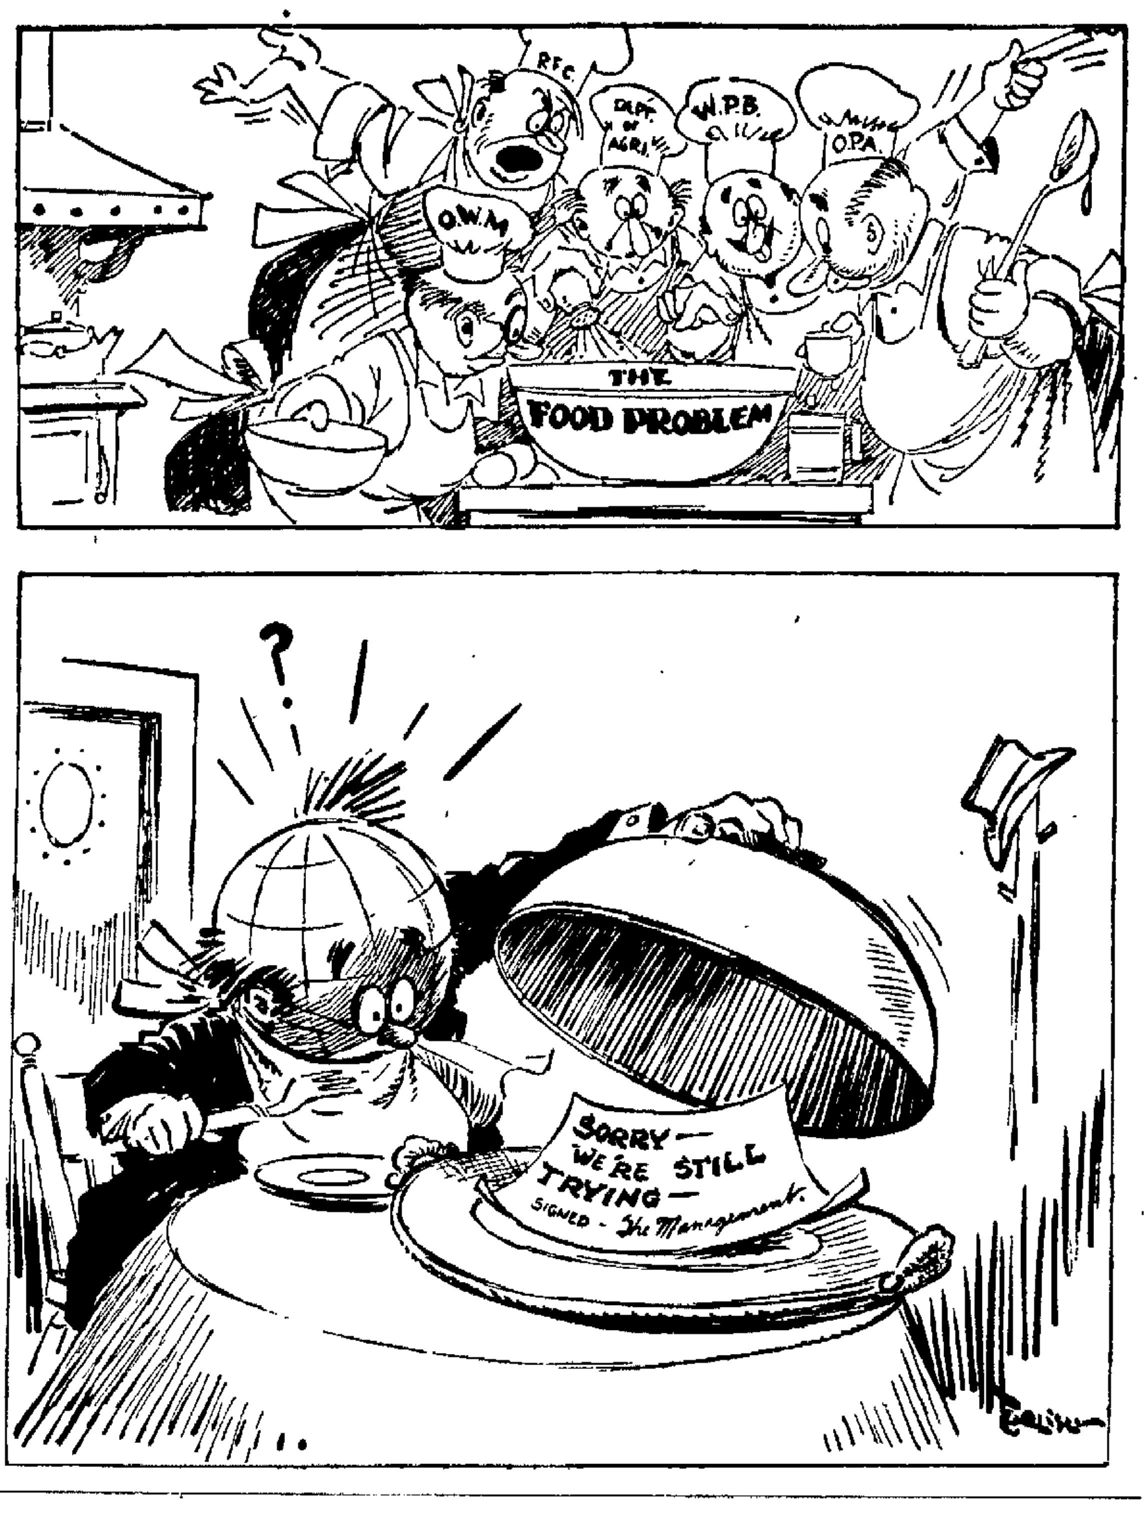
One recent incident of that sort, which resulted in the father of a 13-year-old girl asking the police to investigate the child's absence from home at 1 o'clock in the morning, serves as an example of the need of either closer parental supervision or official action to fix an hour at which children under 16 should be off the streets—unless accompanied by a parent or suitable adult companion.

Working Toward An Ideal

SAYS Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, "In order that this war may indeed be the war to end all wars in all ages, and that nations, great and small alike, may be allowed to live in peace, security and freedom in the generations to come, co-operation must be practised. I have no doubt that the leaders of the United Nations, those men with vision and forethought, are working toward the crystallization of this ideal; yet they too will be impotent if you and I do not give our all toward making it a reality."

In other words, the future of the world is up to the average man and woman.

TOO MANY COOKS DON'T GET ANYTHING COOKED



New German Offensive In Russia May Be Final Show-Down Move

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

OPENING of the heavy German offensive along a 165-mile front in the Orel-Belgorod sector—the bloody cockpit in the Russo-Nazi battle-line south of Moscow—may signal the breaking of the great storm which has been hanging over Europe for weeks.

Whether this is a final all-out attempt by a desperate Hitler to crush the Russian armies isn't yet apparent. But it's a major operation which already has produced fierce fighting, and it might easily develop into the big show-down.

In short, this may be the crisis which should disclose in the near future what the duration of the Hitlerian portion of the world war is likely to be. The Nazi chief will have to put his resources on parade.

The Germans probably have been impelled to undertake this belated offensive either for the purpose of forestalling a Russian drive—which Berlin has been predicting — or because they have decided that they are fairly safe from an immediate Allied invasion of western Europe. Both factors may enter into the situation.

Part and parcel of this attack undoubtedly is the phenomenon of the sudden appearance of fresh Nazi aerial support for the Italians in the battle of Sicily. Apparently Herr Hitler's harassed intuition has done a sudden backflop and made him revise his decision to leave it entirely to Benito (soft - under - belly - of-Europe) Mussolini to stand off the Allied invasion which has been bearing down on him.

The Nazi chief's recent attitude has been that of abandoning his partner in crime as no longer useful to the Axis cause. Hitler's change of mind, if not of heart, is easily understandable in view of the opening of the Russian drive. He has decided to impede the Allied operations in the Mediterranean as much as possible while he is engaged in Russia.

GERMAN and Italian airmen over the fourth gave American and British squadrons attacking Sicily the heaviest opposition since the height of the Tunisian campaign. Everywhere the Axis air defense stiffened strongly and the Axis, as would be expected, were particularly active and apparently taking the lead in resisting the fierce Allied bombing.

It isn't yet clear how much air power Hitler has shifted to Italy or may be prepared to send there. He has been conserving his luftwaffe for emergencies. He not only has been considering the feasibility of inaugurating a final grand offensive against the Reds, but has had to figure on a probable Russian offensive if he himself didn't strike first. There also has been the threat of invasion of western Europe by the Anglo-American forces.

However, he undoubtedly can spare a limited amount of air power to help Mussolini—providing he is safe from invasion across France. This aid might change the Mediterranean picture considerably in that it would make the Allied task of invasion tougher than has been anticipated.

A far more interesting point is what reaction the Nazi offensive in Russia may have on the Allied plans for ultimate invasion of western Europe. With Hitler heavily engaged on the eastern front we have a situation which rather invites Allied invasion of France. Quite likely Premier Salin foresaw this development when he renewed his appeal the other day for an opening of a second front in the west.

In any event, Hitler has opened the gates to the arena, and we are likely to see the conflict swell to a fierce pitch before British Premier Churchill's leaves of autumn begin to fall.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, July 7, 1923.

It was noted that era of wooden coaches on railroads had passed and that steel construction had become general.

Trees were being removed from Park avenue east in readiness to widen street from Diamond to Franklin avenue.

Mayor and Mrs. H. G. Brunner and children left for a ten-days lake trip.

One Man's Opinion

WELL, whatever became of Archie Macleish who was supposed to keep the peace of Washington by passing on all utterances of embattled administrators before they were uttered?

* * *

The way Jesse Jones and Henry Wallace are going at it you'd think they submitted advance copies of their speeches to Mike Jacobs.

Wallace leads with "You're an old so-and-so and I can lick you with one hand tied around your neck."

Jones comes back with "I can spot you 20 years and ten pounds and have you shouting 'Utopia' within ten seconds."

It would make a great bout for the USO and should be fought in Madison Square Garden instead of on the lawn of the White House.

Hazards of Golf.

A man in Kansas City has sued the owners and operators of a golf course for damages because he knocked dirt in his eye the first time he swung at a ball.

The case offers interesting possibilities. If the plaintiff collects, it will open the door to opportunity for all golfers.

They can sue the golf courses for lost balls, which, by the way, are quite an item in these rubberless days, they can sue for clubs broken around trees, for humiliation, disappointment and mental agony when they dubbed a drive, or missed a two-foot putt, which caused them to lose the match and have to set up the drinks at the 19th hole.

Likewise they can sue for blisters on hands and heels, for strained muscles, sunburn, wear and tear on the vocabulary.

Hereafter, when you go on the golf course, take a lawyer along to caddy.—Ohio State Journal.

Dog Owner's Views.

Editor News-Journal:

Recently mention was made in your paper of the peremptory and illegal manner in which dog owners will be treated if dogs get into victory gardens.

I believe the police department and judges will be very unwise to take such methods, for when a human being is accused of a crime it must be proven. Many dogs are at large. All anyone has to do is go down (or call up) the police and make a complaint. It should be proved beyond the shadow of a doubt, with witnesses produced other than complainant's family.

When we dog owners buy a tag and also have our dogs inoculated against rabies, it seems to me it should be remembered that dog owners have some constitutional rights. Dogs are treated too peremptorily here. Let's be fair.

FDR Favors Allowing Women To Serve as Merchant Ship Cooks

WASHINGTON—The president spoke very frankly on a variety of subjects during his conference with five "torpedoed" merchant seamen the other day. He ranged all the way from the contrariness of congress to a proposal that women serve as cooks on merchant vessels and the problems of our Liberty ships in escaping enemy subs.

He also made some nostalgic comments about his favorite peace-time hobby—fishing—prompted by hefty, raw-boned Joseph Curran, chief of the CIO National Maritime union, who accompanied the seamen to the White House.

"Mr. President," said Curran, "we all hope that before very long you will be able to go on a fishing trip again."

"Say, that's the first thing I'm going to do after this war is over and we get the peace settled," beamed Roosevelt. "It seems like a long time since I've done any deep-sea fishing. I'd surely like to be out there with a rod and reel now."

"Well, if you don't get your wish pretty soon, it won't be the fault of the merchant seamen," replied Curran. "They're doing an outstanding job in this war, more than most people realize, in getting supplies through sub-infested waters to Allied forces, wherever they may be."

Praises Seamen.

"THE PEOPLE know you fellows are doing a great job, Joe," said Roosevelt. "The whole country is proud of our merchant marine heroes, and I'm especially proud of them."

The five seamen who accompanied Curran grinned happily. One was Edwin Beck, a wiper, torpedoed twice and whose legs were frozen during a harrowing 72 hours in a lifeboat near Murmansk. Another was Gustav A. Fernandez, a bos'n, who spent 18 days in a lifeboat on one occasion and 24 days another time, after Nazi subs sank his ships.

Thomas Fitzsimmons, a second mate with 26 years experience at sea, Wesley Hersey, a messman, and Charles Williams, a waiter, were the others. Fitzsimmons spent 14 days all told in lifeboats in the bitter waters on the Murmansk run.

The president asked Hersey about the food on our merchant vessels.

"The food's okay, and there's plenty of it, Mr. President," replied the seaman. "But we could do with a few good cooks. That's the big problem at the moment."

Curran broke in to say that all women cooks were taken off of merchant ships when the war broke out, adding: "We think these women should be permitted to go to sea again. It would release more men for the tougher jobs."

"Why not?" agreed the president. "I think they should be allowed to go to sea, too, if they believe they can serve the war effort."

Two other visitors in the party, Admiral Emory S. ("Jerry") Land, chariman of the Maritime commisison, and Edward Macauley, deputy War Shipping administrator, shook their heads. "When the army and navy let women fight, it will be time enough to let them go to sea," Land demurred.

Cites Russians.

"WELL, women crew members have been serving in all capacities on Russian ships," argued Curran, "and they've been doing a remarkable job, as everybody knows. The same is true on Scandinavian ships."

The president averted further debate by switching the subject to congress. He remarked that congress does some "funny things." For example, he pointed out that the legislators had authorized army WACS to go anywhere in the world, but had forbidden navy WAVES, who are supposed to be sea-going personnel, to leave the United States.

"I guess you're right, Mr. President," remarked Hoyt Haddock, an aide of Curran, "but congress also does some things that aren't a bit funny. I think you know what I mean."

The president nodded then asked one of his seamen guests what he thought about the merchant ships we are turning out.

"All our ships are pretty good, Mr. President," was the reply.

"The president wants the truth," urged Curran. "Tell him what you really think."

"Well, the Liberty ships are a little slow, I guess," admitted the seaman.

"I agree with you," said Roosevelt. "The Liberty ship could do with a little more speed. That's one reason we are building the new Victory ship, which is faster. It will make 15 knots."

Jerry's Job.

WITH a wink at Land and Macauley, the president added: "We're a little slow in getting the Victory ship into full production, but Jerry will do the job."

Seaman Beck spent two months in hospitals after being picked up near Murmansk. Eighteen other men in the lifeboat with him died. The president complimented Beck on his courage and inquired: "How was that water?"

"It was colder than hell, Mr. President," answered Beck with a broad grin.

The president was putting on a bow tie when his visitors walked in. "I don't usually bother with a tie in this hot weather," he told Curran, "but I want to look my best for these merchant seamen."

After the neck-tie was in place, Roosevelt leaned back and laughed heartily.

"Now, doesn't that loo good?" he asked.

His visitors agreed that he could tie a fancier bow than Winston Churchill.

Shuttle Bombing.

AIR FORCES officers are greatly pleased with the success of the British experiment recently in "shuttle bombing"—flying all the way across Germany to North Africa, then after reloading and re-fueling there, flying back over Nazi targets on the way home.

But the possibilities of such operation would be much greater if we had air bases farther north. This has made U. S. airmen anxious to have Sicily, Sardinia, and Italy itself. From bases in northern Italy, such shuttle bombing could be carried on with great efficiency.

Don't expect it soon, however, for even the first step in such a campaign, the taking of Sicily, would require weeks. Fortunately, however, this is an operation which could proceed in winter weather.

The greatest losses to U. S. bombers come after they have dropped their bombs and are returning home. With no gas to spare, the planes must return by a straight route, thus encountering heavy fighter opposition. This would be avoided if they could fly on to Italy without turning around.

Now Ernie Will Tell You About the WACs And What They Are Doing In North Africa.

(First of Five Articles on the WACs)

NORTH AFRICA—(By Wireless)—This is a short series about the WACs in Africa. There aren't so very many of them over here so far. The ones who are here are a sort of test tube, but they are working out so well that many others undoubtedly will be coming along to reinforce them.

There is a distressing shortage of WACs. There are only 60,000 of them altogether, and I'm told the Air Forces alone would like to have 300,000. If you happen to have 240,000 potential WACs around the house, would you please let us know?

There are fewer than 300 WACs in North Africa. All of them live in a big headquarters city. They are not dodging bullets, not living in foxholes, not blood-and-gutsing around at any front, as some of the more romantic pieces written about them seem to intimate. They are, in fact, living not very differently from what they would in service at home.

* * *

THE FIRST WACs over here were five captains, on very special confidential work, who arrived last December after being torpedoed on the way. These five, by the nature of their work, are separate from the regular WAC unit and live together in a villa. Since then four other WAC officers have come for similar duty.

An example is Lieut. Sarah Bagby, who is confidential secretary to Lieut. Gen. "Tooey" Spaatz. Lieutenant Bagby, incidentally, is the 11th member of her family to go into uniform.

Now to the bulk of the WACs. There is one full company here—274 women, including five officers. They arrived Jan. 26. They aren't scattered around Africa; they are all concentrated in one city.

Half of them live in a requisitioned five-story office building. Street cars, buses and army vehicles flow past their door constantly. From their rooftop you look right down upon the city and its harbor—it's one of the most striking views I ever saw.

The other half live in a convent just on the edge of the city. They have taken over about half of the convent, and the girls live in huge rooms little different from college dormitories. Their quarters surround a crushed-stone patio with an ancient well in the middle. It all looks like a picture out of the Middle Ages. It's one of the most peaceful places I have ever seen.

There are five women officers to run the company—two captains and three lieutenants. One of the five is a doctor. The officers call the girls either by their rank or by their last name only. First names are never used. Despite these formalities there seems to be a gentler exchange of personalities between WAC officers and girls than between officers and men in the army.

Some WAC officers are grim and severe. One of these might dismiss an auxiliary from her presence with a stiff and chilling "That's all, Holmes," while another officer would perform the same mission by saying, "Get the hell out of here, Holmes, you rat," in a manner that would send the girl off singing to herself for an hour.

One very fine officer I know indulges in morale-building horseplay that would probably shock the Articles of War right out of their covers—such as returning an extremely snappy salute with a snappier one that resembles a baseball pitcher's windup.

THE WACs have conducted themselves beautifully over here. Naturally one has a sip too much of wine now and then, or stays out past hours in the moonlight, but on the whole their conduct would more than meet the approval of any fair-minded person.

The WACs, like everybody else, are subject to many rumors. This might be as good a place as any to dispel one of the vicious ones. It has been whispered about town that 25% of the WACs have been sent home. That is a genuine libel. Only four WACs have been sent back, and they were older women who simply couldn't make the psychological adjustment to being so far from home.

Actually the WACs are neither prissies nor toughies, but just nice natural girls the same as they would be back home.

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

Dreaming and Doing

SOMETIMES I dream of what I would like to do to improve our farm. My heart aches as I delegate to the future what I would like to attempt to do right now.

I would remodel our cottage, raise the roof and make it face the road; build a wall about the old foundation where the spring runs through, and raise the entire house; finish off a root cellar, a laundry and furnace room; a play room for the children; install a shallow water system at house and barn, a bath and a shower. Then fill in the entire lawn to bring it more level with the road, dredge the pond and finish the landscaping.

I would enrich the 30 acres of farm land that is thin and wet, by cover crops and a modern drainage system. It produces now only half what I would like to see grow there. I would apply lime generously then plow down at intervals soybeans and clover. In anticipation, I smile at the tall rank corn, wheat nearing the fifty mark, and dense alfalfa that grows in my improved land.

I would clear the slope of scrubby trees and undergrowth and finish planting the entire 16 acres to peaches and apples. I would draw up mulch from the fertile bottoms to keep moisture about the growing trunks so that they would bloom and fruit and bear luscious harvest.

For more rapid growth, I would scatter a commercial orchard fertilizer early in the spring, and later work the soil. Berries and small fruits could grow between the apple rows and continuous farming would terrace well the slope and make erosion slight Here all varieties of plants would fruit early, since the woods adjoining west and north protect it well.

Then the woods above, where three years ago, a fire raged desperately and killed the younger growth, I would clean of all dead wood and plant in the open spaces thrifty seedlings of shell-bark, pine, hickory, maple, poplar and hardy locust.

* * *

SO FAR I got, when from my study window, I saw Mrs. Bones one of our cows, her neck chain dragging, come into view. She was finishing the last remaining plant of heading cabbage.

With a muttered threat against animals in general and cows in particular I leaped up, spilling the ink. I had prized those cabbages! Time and cows wait for no man. We must live NOW.

It was in thoughtful mood that I shouldered an axe, called the boys to bring barb wire, and went up the slope to fence in a pasture.
